

According to Hartshorne, "the model of which all things are 'images' or expressions" is "the universal consciousness [sic!]," "the essential nature" of which is "love in perfect form" ("Biology and the Spiritual View of the World": 409).