

What does the technical language of philosophy represent?—"The technical language of philosophy represents attempts of various schools of thought to obtain explicit expression of general ideas presupposed by the facts of experience" (12 [18]).

What is metaphysics?—"Metaphysics is nothing but the description of the generalities which apply to all the details of practice" (13 [19 f.]).