

What, exactly, is an event?

Here are a few of Whitehead's characterizations:

" a complex unity, whose ingredients involve all reality beyond itself, restricted under the limitation of its pattern of aspects"

". . . a function of unification of a plurality of things which are other than [itself]"

". . . an activity, organising a real togetherness of alien things"

All quotations are from SMW: 216 f.

October 1998