Philosophy is to religion and culture generally as theology is to a particular religion and the culture shaped by it. Thus philosophy is critical reflection on the validity claims expressed or implied by all religion and culture just as theology is critical reflection on the validity claims expressed or implied by a particular religion and culture.

n.d.; rev. 19 August 2003