HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Information and regulations of interest to both graduate and theological students are combined in one comprehensive student handbook.

The book begins with information particular to [in alphabetical order] the Caspersen School (pages 6–17), followed by information particular to the Theological School (pages 18–31).

A common section follows with information relevant to both schools. Whenever there is a distinction in policy or information between the two schools, it has been pointed out with Caspersen School information first, followed by information for the Theological School.

A paper edition of the handbook will be sent to all incoming students and to all those who request one. For everyone else, the book is available electronically as an easy-to-use Adobe Acrobat file which can be found at depts.drew.edu/stuaff/handbook/gradtheo.
Every student in the Caspersen School and the Theological School is held responsible for knowledge of the material in this book, as well as such additional regulations as may appear in The Acorn, the University Catalog, or posted bulletins.

By choosing to attend these schools, students agree to abide by Drew’s structures and educational policies, even though they are free to criticize and propose change.

Note: Information and dates are subject to change. A continually updated version of this handbook is available at depts.drew.edu/stuaff/handbook/gradtheo

It is a privilege for me to serve as the Interim Dean of the Caspersen School. During my tenure, we will work toward defining the course of the Graduate School in the years to come. Your participation in this process is vital as is that of the faculty. I look forward to our conversations and meetings and to building on the solid foundation laid by my predecessors.

Interim Dean Edye Lawler

The student body represents a rich mixture of individuals from around the world. The numbers are almost equally divided between men and women and married and single students. Through classes, the Graduate Student Association (GSA), and activities planned by conveners, you will get to know students from all disciplines and freely exchange ideas. The intellectual excitement on campus is stimulating and the overall atmosphere is supportive.

The faculty are accessible, friendly, and interested in their students. The social life of Drew is likewise enhanced by the many colloquia, mixers, and receptions hosted annually by the Caspersen School. There is a vast range of opportunities for students both on and nearby campus, many of which are described in this book. You can easily walk to shops and restaurants and the train station in Madison. There is a bus to New York City which stops at the main gate. Princeton and Philadelphia are within a reasonable driving distance. These cities—with their many libraries, museums, universities, seminars, bookstores, theaters, and restaurants—provide almost limitless intellectual, cultural, and social resources.

This stately building, originally designed as a dormitory and dining hall, was constructed of New Hampshire granite in 1912 and completed the following year. It is a replica of the magnificent Christ Church Hall in England, where John Wesley and other Methodists had eaten while attending Oxford. Samuel Bowne, who died in 1910, changed his will to provide the necessary funding for the building.

After more than 90 years of service to Drew (first as a refectory and then as home to the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies), S. W. Bowne is getting some much-needed attention. Phase one, just completed, entailed repairs to the roof, reconstruction of some windows, and stabilization of the stonework (including the towers and gargoyles). This year, work was completed on upgrading the electrical capacity of the building. Funding for phase two is underway and, if successful, will involve a 4,500 square foot addition to the building, as well as renovation of first-floor offices. Detailed plans are on display in the lobby outside the deans’ offices.

S. W. Bowne is home to the Caspersen School Dean and Associate Dean, the Graduate School of Admissions, the Directors of the Arts and Letters and Medical Humanities programs, the Graduate Student Association (GSA), and the offices of the philosophy department. Academic advisers are appointed through this office, as well as appointments with either of the deans. It is also the place to learn about grants and fellowships, calls for papers, job announcements, and GSA committee vacancies. You can relax in Thompson Commons, take your comprehensive exams, and present the oral defense of your dissertation—all in S. W. Bowne.

There are copies of several scholarship/grant books that you may browse, as well as current copies of the “Chronicle of Higher Education” and “AAR/SBL Openings”. Just outside the dean’s office, in the lobby, are postings of jobs and scholarships. Associate Dean Bill Rogers’ office is located across from the mailboxes in the hallway. If you have a problem, do not hesitate to contact him—his advice and counsel are extremely helpful to obtaining your degree from Drew.

The Caspersen School Community
THOMPSON COMMONS
Located on the second floor of S.W. Bowne Hall, Thompson Commons (named for former Dean of the Graduate School Bard Thompson) is open to graduate students for studying, socializing, or meetings. Check with Linda Blank in the Caspersen School Office if you wish to reserve this room for a class or area meeting.

Most GSA functions take place in Thompson Commons. The door requires a secret code to unlock it which you will learn during Orientation or at subsequent GSA meetings. If you’re really stuck, call one of the GSA officers or ask a fellow student.

Remember to check out the GSA bulletin board located outside Thompson Commons to sign up for GSA committees and announcements of important events.

The Graduate Student Association represents and promotes the interests of the graduate community by taking an active role in Caspersen School governance, coordinating social activities and events, and by supporting the intellectual and professional lives of graduate students.

There is a steering committee comprised of the officers and student conveners from each of the degree programs: student representatives sit on most University-wide committees and actively participate in shaping school policy. In addition, the various GSA committees serve to coordinate and manage ongoing issues related to academic studies and student life at Drew.

At least four general GSA meetings are held during each academic year. These meetings are open to the entire graduate community. Read your email and GSA newsletter “News and Notes” to keep informed of the dates and times of meetings. It is the active participation of graduate students that makes the GSA an effective student body and a strong voice at Drew University.

The GSA Web site has information on off-campus services to graduate students. Some of these services include information about outside scholarships, the NAGPS (National Association of Graduate and Professional Students), Internet lists and services, and professional organizations such as MLA, AAR, and APA.

The GSA’s mailbox is located in the bank of boxes in the upstairs hallway.

GSA AND UNIVERSITY COMMITTEES

Other ad hoc committees may be formed as need arises. If you would like to be a representative to any of these groups, please contact the GSA president. Note: Some positions are left open intentionally, in order to give opportunities to incoming students.

ACADEMIC INFORMATION

Caspersen School

ACADEMIC ASSISTANTSHIPS

In April of each year, the Associate Dean of the Caspersen School receives advice from the Areas concerning the appointment of academic assistants. These appointments are designed to provide exceptional students with teaching and/or practical research experience under faculty mentorship. They are, insofar as possible within budget constraints, distributed evenly among the participating Areas.

The CSGS also makes available Research Assistantships utilizing Federal College Work-Study funds. Students selected for these positions by faculty can perform a wide variety of tasks, including assisting in course preparation, engaging in research, or helping with classroom instructional duties.

Appointments are limited to duly registered students in good standing in the Caspersen School. Payment is by stipend and determined annually, in relation to the availability of funds.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY

In an effort to standardize practice, the Caspersen School (along with the College and the Theological School) has adopted the following “Standards of Academic Honesty” policy.

STANDARDS OF ACADEMIC HONESTY

Standards of honesty in the academic world derive from the nature of the academic enterprise itself. Scholars use writing both to create knowledge and to record knowledge, and students are invited into the academic enterprise through an intellectual conversation that occurs primarily in writing. Through the exchange of written texts, students contribute to the academic conversation and develop their intellectual skills. Since academic dishonesty necessarily hinders such development, it cannot be tolerated under any circumstances. Accordingly, Drew University has established standards of academic integrity and procedures governing violations of them. These basic standards apply to all work done at Drew. Students are expected to study and comply with these principles as stated below.

CATEGORIES OF ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

The standards of academic integrity apply to information that is presented orally, in writing, or via the computer, in any format ranging from the most informal comment to a formal research paper or a dissertation. These standards apply to source material gathered from other people, from written texts, from computer programs, from the Internet, or from any other location.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is the act of appropriating or imitating the language, ideas, or thoughts of another and presenting them as one’s own or without proper acknowledgment. This includes submitting as one’s own a thesis, a paper, or part of a paper written by another person, whether that material was stolen, purchased, or shared freely. It also includes submitting a paper containing insufficient citation or misuse of source material.

DUPLICATE SUBMISSION

Submitting one work in identical or similar form to fulfill more than one requirement without prior approval of the relevant faculty members is a breach of academic integrity. This includes using a paper for more than one course or submitting material previously used to meet another requirement.

CHEATING ON EXAMINATIONS

Cheating on examinations by copying material from another person or source or by gaining any advance knowledge of the content or topic of an examination without the permission of the instructor is another breach of academic integrity. In the case of take-home examinations, the guidelines under collaboration (below) apply; failure to follow those guidelines constitutes academic dishonesty.

FALSE CITATION

Listing an author, title, or page reference as the source for obtained material, when the material actually came from another source or from another location within that source, is a breach of academic integrity. This includes attributing fabricated material to a real or fictitious source.

BASIC REQUIREMENTS FOR ACKNOWLEDGING SOURCES

QUOTATION

All quotations, however short, must be identified as such. In written texts they must be placed in quotation marks or be clearly indented, and the complete source must be cited either in the text or in a footnote or endnote.

PARAPHRASE

Any borrowed material that is summarized, restated, or reworked must be cited as such, whether it is used in written or oral form. The paraphrased material must be clearly indicated by a signal phrase (including the author’s name) at the beginning and a page citation or footnote/endnote marker at the end. Students should take careful notes when reading and researching so that they can properly acknowledge sources and produce them upon request. Lapse of time or substantial reworking of researched material does not eliminate the obligation to give due recognition.
COLLABORATION
If a student has collaborated with another person or group of people and used research data gathered by others or significant ideas developed in collaboration (via notes, conferences, conversations, email communications, etc.) as part of a paper or assignment, the extent and nature of the contribution must be clearly indicated. Students collaborating on an assignment must give proper acknowledgment both to the extent of the collaboration and to any team member whose specific ideas or words played a significant role in the development of the thesis, the argument, or the structure of the finished work. Unless a paper or assignment is collaboratively authored (and acknowledged as such), the presentation of the ideas, the interpretation of the data, and the organization of sentences and paragraphs should be original and should differ significantly from those in the papers or assignments of others who have collaborated on the research.

MATERIAL IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN
While facts and concepts borrowed from a source should be properly acknowledged, certain well-known facts, proverbs, and famous quotations are regarded as in the public domain, so their source need not be cited. That the First World War started in 1914 does not require citation, nor does "To be or not to be" call for citation of its exact whereabouts in Hamlet. What constitutes "public domain" varies according to discipline; if in doubt, students should consult the instructor.

BIBLIOGRAPHY/WORKS CITED
All sources consulted in preparing a paper or assignment are to be listed in the bibliography or works cited list, unless other instructions are given. While in some disciplines works listed in the bibliography may not necessarily be directly referred to in the paper or notes, all sources included in the works cited list must appear in the paper. Simply listing a work in the bibliography or works cited list does not remove the obligation to give due recognition for specific use in the body of the paper.

FORMS OF REFERENCE
If individual departments or instructors require that a particular style be used for quotations, footnotes, endnotes, bibliographies, etc., students should be made aware of that requirement. For most theses and dissertations, students will be asked to follow the guidelines to be found in The Chicago Manual of Style, (CMS), 14th ed. (University of Chicago Press, 1993) or the version of CMS in A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, (Turabian), 5th ed. by Kate Turabian (University of Chicago Press, 1987). Otherwise, for standard forms students may consult: The MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, (MLA), 4th ed. (New York: Modern Language Association of America, 1995) in the humanities; or the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA), 4th ed. (New York: American Psychological Association, 1994) in the social sciences.

EXAMPLES OF PLAGIARISM
The following examples, from Rebecca Moore Howard’s "A Plagiarism Pentimento" (Journal of Teaching Writing, Summer 1993), are provided to help prevent any misunderstanding. Please read and analyze them carefully.

Original Wording: "As people to "we" for example, the extent of the collaboration and to any team member whose specific ideas or words played a significant role in the development of the thesis, the argument, or the structure of the finished work. Unless a paper or assignment is collaboratively authored (and acknowledged as such), the presentation of the ideas, the interpretation of the data, and the organization of sentences and paragraphs should be original and should differ significantly from those in the papers or assignments of others who have collaborated on the research.

Example 1: Original: "People to "we" for example, the extent of the collaboration and to any team member whose specific ideas or words played a significant role in the development of the thesis, the argument, or the structure of the finished work. Unless a paper or assignment is collaboratively authored (and acknowledged as such), the presentation of the ideas, the interpretation of the data, and the organization of sentences and paragraphs should be original and should differ significantly from those in the papers or assignments of others who have collaborated on the research.

Example 2: Original: "The First World War started in 1914 does not require citation, nor does "To be or not to be" call for citation of its exact whereabouts in Hamlet. What constitutes "public domain" varies according to discipline; if in doubt, students should consult the instructor.

Example 3: Original: "While facts and concepts borrowed from a source should be properly acknowledged, certain well-known facts, proverbs, and famous quotations are regarded as in the public domain, so their source need not be cited. That the First World War started in 1914 does not require citation, nor does "To be or not to be" call for citation of its exact whereabouts in Hamlet. Misuse of Source (1): Specifically, story myths serve as answers to questions people ask about life, about society and about the world in which they live* (10).

Comment: This is an example of plagiarism as defined in this booklet. The student copied words and phrases from the original without acknowledging their source. Although the student has rearranged some phrases and made minor stylistic changes, this version still follows the basic wording and structure of the original while the student repeats ideas as if they were his or her own.

UNINTENTIONAL PLAGIARISM
Unintentional plagiarism is also a breach of academic integrity and may be punished accordingly. Unintentional plagiarism, also known as patchwriting, occurs when students depend too heavily on textual material to make a point rather than making the point themselves and using the text to support it. The second example of plagiarism above is an example of patchwriting; it may be rewritten in several different ways:
Misuse of Source (2): Davidson explains that story myths answer questions people ask about life, about society and about the world that we live in (10).

(a) Rewritten with Correct Citation:
Davidson explains that “story myths” answer “questions people ask about life, about society and about the world in which they live” (10).

(b) Paraphrased:
As Davidson explains, the importance of “story myths” is in their relevance to the everyday lives of their readers (10).

(c) Use of Paraphrase and Quotation in a Paragraph:
“Story myths” are powerful because they deal with phenomena that people cannot understand in any other way. As Davidson explains, story myths have direct relevance to the everyday lives of their readers by “provid[ing] answers to questions” (10).

Comment
In the rewritten version of the plagiarized sentence (a), the student has quoted all of the words that came directly from Davidson. Although this is an acceptable sentence, obviously such extensive quotation would not be acceptable throughout a research paper. In the sample paraphrase (b), the writer has maintained and correctly cited the essential idea in Davidson’s sentence, but the articulation of that idea is original, very different from the source. This is an example of an appropriate use of source material. In the final example (c), the writer has used Davidson’s analysis to support a point he or she is making about the role of “story myths,” and combined paraphrase and quotation to show how Davidson supports the assertion. This is the most common way to use source material in academic papers.

Notice that in all three examples the writer introduces the source material with a signal phrase naming the author and marks the end of the use of that source material with a parenthetical page reference. Although the exact method of citation varies across the disciplines, the purpose—to mark the beginning and end of material drawn from another source—remains the same.

PROCEDURES FOR HEARING CASES OF ACADEMIC DISHONESTY
This procedure applies retroactively for theses and dissertations accepted in good faith by the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies toward completion of a degree, but later suspected of being plagiarized in part or in full.

1. Instructors or others suspecting plagiarism shall report alleged cases of academic dishonesty to the Dean of the Caspersen School. Students should help to maintain the standards of the University by reporting all cases of academic dishonesty they observe.

2. When an accusation of academic dishonesty is brought, the Dean of the Caspersen School will convene and chair an Academic Integrity Committee made up of two faculty members and one student chosen to serve in that role for the year by the Graduate Student Association, and the accused student’s academic adviser or another faculty member of the accused student’s choosing. When any member of the Committee believes that he or she should not hear a case because of a possible conflict of interest, that member should recuse him or herself. The accused student may request that a specific faculty member or student not be asked to hear the case; this request will be honored. In either case, the committee will be reconvened using other members from the appropriate pool.

3. The accused student may request, and will be granted, up to a week to prepare his or her response before being called before the committee. In the first stage of the hearing, both the faculty member bringing the allegations and the accused student will be present, and each will make an oral statement to the committee and answer any questions. At this stage, either may ask to address the committee without the other’s being present and will be granted the right to do so.
4. The accused student, the reporting faculty member, and the student’s advocate will be asked to wait outside the room while the committee discusses the case, and any of the three may be called back into the room to answer questions. At the end of their deliberations on the case, the Dean of the Graduate School, the two faculty members, and the student will vote on the matter, while the adviser will have a voice but no vote.

5. A decision of responsible or not responsible will be based on a preponderance of the evidence in the case; however, other factors, such as any prior accusations or any mitigating circumstances, may be taken into account in the determination of penalty.

6. In all cases, both the accused student and the faculty member bringing the allegations may appeal the decision as described below.

PENALTIES

The individual merits of each case are weighed by the committee, which determines the penalty accordingly. The committee considers the purpose of both the hearing and the penalty to be educational; penalties are determined with that in mind.

For theses and dissertations already accepted in partial fulfillment of degrees already conferred:

First Offense: The maximum penalty is suspension from Drew and/or the revocation of a graduate degree issued by Drew. Other penalties may include, but are not limited to, denial of some or all honors conferred by the University and loss of credit for the assignment or for the course. A letter stating the committee’s ruling will be placed in the student’s file in the Dean of the Caspersen School’s office, where it will remain. Any such letters will be a part of the record in subsequent cases and appeals.

Second Offense: The maximum penalty is expulsion from Drew and/or the revocation of a graduate degree issued by Drew.

APPEAL PROCESS

1. Decisions of the Academic Integrity Committee may be appealed only if new evidence has been found, or if the original hearing overlooked specific evidence or committed procedural errors.

2. The Committee on Policy, Planning and Faculty is the final appeals board for cases of academic dishonesty. The appeal, whether sought by the faculty member who brought the allegations or by the accused student, must be submitted in writing. On the basis of the written appeal, the committee may decide to hear the case or to uphold the original decision if no new evidence has been presented, if no evidence has been shown to have been overlooked, and/or if no procedural errors have been shown to have occurred. Whatever its decision, the committee must provide reasons in writing to both parties. If the committee agrees to hear the case, it has the right to reverse the decision of an earlier hearing.

3. While the Dean of the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies will remain in attendance during such hearings, he or she will have a voice but no vote.

4. When any member of the committee believes he or she should not hear the matter under appeal because of a possible conflict of interest, that member may be excused.

5. During the hearing of the appeal, the faculty member who brought the original allegations will provide information and answer questions. The student may be accompanied and advised by a member of the faculty of his or her choice and will also provide information and answer questions.

6. Decisions will be based on a preponderance of the evidence and will be provided in writing to both parties.

AREAS OF STUDY AND CONVENERS (2006–07)

Each Area within the Caspersen School has both a faculty convener and a student convener. Student conveners are responsible for acting as a liaison between students, faculty, and the administration and represent the Area in the Graduate School Association (GSA). In addition, student conveners plan social and scholarly events. Student conveners serve for one year and are selected by the student body at the end of the spring semester.

Katherine G. Brown, Coordinator Seminary Hall B11, x3397 kgbrown@drew.edu

The ESOL program for students in the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies is a non-credit academic support service designed to assist non-native English-speaking students in language-related tasks at various levels of their academic experience at Drew. Since it is assumed that matriculated students have developed their English language skills to the level of proficiency required for admission and successful performance on the graduate level, its primary objective is to provide students with supplementary language services that will enable them to further develop their English language skills and to engage more actively and productively in the various tasks related to their professional academic life. The following services are available, by appointment only, to all non-native English-speaking students matriculated in the Caspersen School:

• Research paper review: Individual consultations to review the grammar, vocabulary, and appropriate documentation of research papers and reports;
• Prospectus preparation and review: Individual consultations for assistance in the development of the doctoral prospectus;
• Dissertation review: Individual consultations for assistance in the progressive development of the doctoral dissertation, including the organization, grammar, vocabulary, and review of the documentation of the document;
• Professional lecture preparation: Individual consultation for the review of professional papers and preparation for the delivery of public lectures.

Conversation Partners: Students have the opportunity to meet with a conversation partner one hour each week to enhance informal conversational skills. See also Conversation Partners on page 43.

For further information regarding the ESOL program, please consult the ESOL Web site.

Terrie McCoy, S. W. Bowne 5, x3766

Language courses are offered during the summer and January break. The cost per course is $850. Languages typically offered are German, French, Spanish, and Latin. Be sure to check the Caspersen School catalogue for language requirements in your area of study.

LEARNING DIFFERENCES

Terrie McCoy, S. W. Bowne 5, x3766

Drew has developed supports and guidelines for helping enrolled students with learning differences to function effectively in the academic environment. Though learning-disabled students must meet the same academic standards as other students, the University is committed to helping them achieve success.

If you would like to be tested for dyslexia/learning differences, please contact the Counseling Center, x3398.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE AND WITHDRAWAL POLICY

Dean William Rogers, S.W. Bowne x3283

Leave of Absence, Voluntary

Upon written approval of the Associate Dean of the Caspersen School, a student may take a leave of absence for a term not to exceed one year. Students requesting a leave of absence must meet with the dean before such a request will be approved. A leave of absence form (available in the dean’s office) should be filled out and the signature of the dean obtained.

The dean is empowered to grant leaves of absence on only three bases:

• physical illness
• mental or emotional illness
• extreme financial difficulty

As the student pays no tuition or fees during a leave of absence, he/she is not entitled to use any of the resources of the University—Library, faculty, housing, or grants-in-aid. Time spent in leaves of absence will not be counted as part of the five-year time limitation for the M.A. or the seven-year time limitation for the Ph.D. Repayment for any student loans must begin in a leave of absence, by federal regulation.

Re-Admission/Re-entry

Dean William Rogers, S.W. Bowne x3283

Students on a voluntary leave of absence who plan to return to Drew must fill out a re-entry form and schedule an appointment with the dean at least one month prior to return. If you have been away from Drew for more than two semesters, you must also file a petition available from the Office of the Registrar.
WITHDRAWAL AND DISMISSAL POLICY

Dean William Rogers, S. W. Bowne x3283

Students may be asked to leave the University. The following policies apply:

• Academic Withdrawal: A student may be required to withdraw for unsatisfactory scholarship. This decision is made by the Committee on Academic Standing.

• Medical Withdrawal: At the request of the student, the Dean of the Caspersen School (in consultation with physicians and counselors) is authorized to effect a withdrawal for reasons of health without prejudice to consideration of an application for re-admission. In exceptional circumstances, the dean is authorized to require a student to withdraw for reasons of physical or psychological health without prejudice to consideration of an application for re-admission. This action might occur if, in the judgment of the University, the student could not benefit from the available, limited therapeutic resources of the University; or if the student were threatening to self and/or others; or were of a disruptive concern to others.

• Non-Academic Withdrawal: Among the sanctions the University can impose to protect its community are the following types of withdrawal:

  1. Expulsion: Unconditional separation from the University. The expelled student is barred from campus and all University-sponsored activities.

  2. Suspension (from the University or from University-owned housing): The student is required to withdraw from the University (or University-owned housing) for a specified period of time, with the privilege of applying for re-admission after the period of suspension. In making a determination on the re-admission application, the University will evaluate the documented (as appropriate) progress the student has made and/or any positive indication that the student is ready for re-admission.

  Voluntary Withdrawal: Withdrawal forms are available from both the Office of the Registrar and the Associate Dean of the Caspersen School. It is essential that a student notify the University if he/she is not planning to return. The enrollment deposit and security deposit are forfeited if the University is not formally notified of withdrawal by August 1 (for the fall semester) or December 1 (for the spring semester).

Any student who has been away from Drew for more than two semesters must also file a petition, available from the Office of the Registrar.

There will be no refund of tuition and fees for a student who is suspended (from the University or from housing), expelled, or asked to withdraw.

TIME LIMITS FOR EARNING DEGREES

Seven years is the maximum time acceptable for graduate study at Drew. This time limit includes all degrees earned, including an M.A. and an M. Phil. The specific limits for completing degree requirements follow:

- Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.), Doctor of Letters (D.Litt.), and Doctor of Medical Humanities (D.M.H.)—seven years
- Master of Arts (M.A.), Master of Letters (M.Litt.), and Master of Medical Humanities (M.M.H.)—five years

WHO'S WHO

The Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs mails applications in the fall to all graduate students who have completed at least two years of coursework and have a cumulative GPA of 3.75 or better. Nominees are selected by a committee of deans on the basis of social and academic standing, leadership, and participation in extracurricular activities. Those students named to Who’s Who receive certificates and are honored at a ceremony during the spring semester. The students are listed in the annual Who’s Who publication.

THE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL COMMUNITY

A Message from the Dean

This “dictionary” will answer many of your questions about life at Drew Theological School. Keep it close by as you are here with us these next years. Along with the catalogue, it provides the map for the journey.

Drew is a community and you are now part of that community rooted in study, practice, and prayer. We live together with a set of expectations that we make on each other. While your first responsibility is to the work of your classes, we hope you also take full advantage of all the resources and privileges that come to you as a student at Drew University.

Go to the Forum and swim or work out. Put together a team for intramural sports or just support the teams that represent Drew in those sports. Come out of your apartment or stay around for Drew community life events. Get involved in the volunteer opportunities alongside undergraduates. Visit the United Methodist Archives and explore the rich history of our tradition that they house there.

Services for mental and physical health are also available to you. Theological education often places a strain on your physical being. This would be a good time to develop good habits of self care and good nutrition. It is also possible that memories of abuse and addiction or your tendency toward co-dependency will become more pronounced as you deal with the demands of theological reflection in your program. Please see this as a good opportunity to deal with professionals about your unresolved issues. Join groups, seek out counseling, and work on those issues for your own sake and the sake of those you serve.

If you are married and/or have children, we hope that you find ways to include them in your life here on campus. We understand the unique pressure that theological education places on relationships and the strain that comes with full-time Christian vocation for families. We want you to hold those relationships as precious. You will be changing and you need to include them in as many ways as possible.

Get involved—take it all in and enjoy this incredible journey. Thanks for letting us be part of your spiritual development!

Maxine Clarke Beach
Dean of the Theological School

The Theological School Community

The life of the community in the Theological School is an important dimension of theological education and a source of support for all students. Through chapel services held Tuesday through Thursday, community meals, frequent discussions involving students, faculty, staff, and invited guests, and twice-yearly retreats, students form lasting friendships that cross lines of denomination, race, age, lifestyle, and gender and enter into a dialogue that is informative and formative at the same time. In addition, students are encouraged to become active in the Theological Student Association (TSA) and to serve on school committees as interest and time allow.

SEMINARY HALL

We are delighted that Seminary Hall has a brand new addition. The new construction provides us with elevator access to all parts of the building as well as giving us new common space and seminary rooms. Most of the faculty have their offices in Seminary Hall and many of our classes are held in the building. This building has been the center of theological education at Drew for more than a century. This booklet will help you find people within Seminary Hall and also help you locate faculty and staff whose offices are in 12 Campus Drive.

Service of the Word and Table (Communion)

Chapel services are a wonderful opportunity to savor the diversity of the Drew community as well as to hear alumni/ae and outside preachers. Rev. Bennett publishes a monthly chapel schedule, and information about the services is available in our online “Theo Weekly” publication.

CHOIR
The Seminary Choir provides music for worship and other events. Members may participate for academic credit or simply for pleasure and personal enrichment. Rehearsal times are Wednesdays from noon to 12:45 p.m. and Thursdays from 12:15–1 p.m. Mark Miller, Director of Music, conducts the choir.

COMMUNITY MEALS
The Theological School community gathers to share a community lunch approximately once a week. Sometimes there are speakers for the lunch and other times they are purely for fellowship with each other. Additionally, the deans of the Theo School hold several open houses to talk with the hosting dean and share food. Watch the “Theo-Weekly” for information on these events.

CYBER CAFE/ KIRBY LOUNGE
Seminary Hall, Lower Level
Kirby Lounge houses the Cyber Café where coffee, tea, sodas, and snacks are available for a donation. Also, there are connections for students to access the Internet. This is a great place to eat lunch, study, or meet friends. It may also be used as a formal meeting room. For reservations, contact the Scheduling Office, x3308.

LECTURES
There are many opportunities for students to attend lectures on academic topics presented by all three schools.

The Theological School also offers a number of regular lectures and lecture series featuring prominent authorities. Traditionally, alumni/ae class reunions are held during the Tipple/Vosburgh lecture series each October. In addition, there is the Nelle K. Morton lecture, highlighting women’s issues in society and religious communities, the Martin Luther King, Jr. lecture, which addresses theological and ethical issues from the perspective of the African-American experience, the Frederick Shippey lecture in the sociology of religion, and the annual spring lecture sponsored by the Hispanic Institute of Theology.
MAILBOXES
Seminary Hall, Lower Level
Students are assigned open mailboxes in Seminary Hall to be used for leaving messages and distributing material such as the seminary's newsletter. In keeping with privacy regulations, academic papers will be returned (if not distributed in class) via the secretary to the faculty, Seminary Hall 5C.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS
BLACK MINISTERIAL CAUCUS (BMC)
Calvin Gibson, cgibson@drew.edu
BMC is an organization whose goal is to educate the community about their culture in order to promote diversity. It does so via chapel services, guest speakers, social programming, and support groups, such as Sister Friends. Sister Friends is a group of women who come together to bond and to speak of their struggles during their studies. If you are interested in joining, please contact Calvin.

Seung Biehn Ryu, x4445
One of the most active groups on campus, the Korean Caucus serves the needs of Korean and Korean-American students. It holds regular early-morning worship services and sponsors an annual Korean lecture and cultural festival in the spring.

THEOLOGICAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION (TSA) groups.drew.edu/tsa
All theological students are automatically members of the TSA and are invited to be involved in making decisions for the Theological School community. The TSA functions through a committee system. Incoming students are eligible and encouraged to seek membership in committees and as First-Year Representatives during the September elections. If you are an enrolled student, you are a valued member of the TSA and welcome at all general meetings.

Students who serve on a specific committee should remember to report on its activity at TSA general meetings. Useful information for the entire student body can be channeled through the Communications Committee.

ACADEMIC ADVICEING
Anne Yardley, Associate Academic Dean, Seminary Hall 102, x3419
Advisers aid students in selecting courses in line with their interests and/or career objectives. If you do not have an adviser, please call Dean Yardley.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY
In an effort to standardize practice, the Theological School (along with the College and the Graduate School) has adopted an Academic Integrity Policy. The following “Standards of Academic Honesty” policy has been approved by the Theological School faculty.

Academic Honesty Standards
Standards of honesty in the academic world derive from the nature of the academic enterprise itself. Scholars use writing both to create knowledge and to record knowledge, and students are invited into the academic enterprise through an intellectual conversation that occurs primarily in writing. Through the exchange of written texts, students contribute to the academic enterprise itself. Scholars and students are expected to study and comply with these principles as stated below.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY
The standards of academic integrity apply to information that is presented orally, in writing, or via the computer, in any format ranging from the most informal comment to a formal research paper or a dissertation. These standards apply to source material gathered from other people, from written texts, from computer programs, from the Internet, or from any other location.

• Plagiarism
Plagiarism is the act of appropriating or imitating the language, ideas, or thoughts of another and presenting them as one’s own or without proper acknowledgment. This includes submitting as one’s own a thesis, a paper, or part of a paper written by another person, whether that material was stolen, purchased, or shared freely. It also includes submitting a paper containing insufficient citation or misuse of source material.

• Duplicate Submission
Submitting one work in identical or similar form to fulfill more than one requirement without prior approval of the relevant faculty members is a breach of academic integrity. This includes using a paper for more than one course or submitting material previously used to meet another requirement.

• Cheating on Examinations
Cheating on examinations by copying material from another person or source or by gaining any advance knowledge of the content or topic of an examination without the permission of the instructor is another breach of academic integrity. In the case of take-home examinations, the guidelines under collaboration (below) apply; failure to follow those guidelines constitutes academic dishonesty.

• False Citation
Listing an author, title, or page reference as the source for obtained material, when the material actually came from another source or from another location within that source, is a breach of academic integrity. This includes attributing fabricated material to a real or fictitious source.

Basic Requirements for Acknowledging Sources

QUOTATION
All quotations, however short, must be identified as such. In written texts they must be placed in quotation marks or be clearly indented, and the complete source must be cited either in the text or in a footnote or endnote.

PARAPHRASE
Any borrowed material that is summarized, restated, or reworked must be cited as such, whether it is used in written or oral form. The paraphrased material must be clearly indicated by a signal phrase (including the author’s name) at the beginning and a page citation or footnote/endnote marker at the end. Students should take careful notes when reading and researching so that they can properly acknowledge sources and produce them upon request. Lapse of time or substantial reworking of researched material does not eliminate the obligation to give due recognition.

COLLABORATION
If a student has collaborated with another person or group of people and used research data gathered by others or significant ideas developed in collaboration (via notes, conferences, conversations, email communications, etc.) as part of a paper or assignment, the extent and nature of the contribution must be clearly indicated. Students collaborating on an assignment must give proper acknowledgment both to the extent of the collaboration and to any team member whose specific ideas or words played a significant role in the development of the thesis, the argument, or the structure of the finished work. Unless a paper or the assignment is collaboratively authored (and acknowledged as such), the presentation of the ideas, the interpretation of the data, and the organization of sentences and paragraphs should be original and should differ significantly from those in the papers or assignments of others who have collaborated on the research.

MATERIAL IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN
While facts and concepts borrowed from a source should be properly acknowledged, certain well-known facts, proverbs, and famous quotations are regarded as in the public domain, so their source need not be cited. That the First World War started in 1914 does not require citation, nor does "To be or not to be" call for citation of its exact whereabouts in Hamlet. What constitutes "public domain" varies according to discipline; if in doubt, students should consult the instructor.

BIBLIOGRAPHY/WORKS CITED
All sources consulted in preparing a paper or assignment are to be listed in the bibliography or works cited list, unless other instructions are given. While in some disciplines works listed in the bibliography may not necessarily be directly referred to in the paper or notes, all sources included in the works cited list must appear in the paper. Simply listing a work in the bibliography or works cited list does not remove the obligation to give due recognition for specific use in the body of the paper.

FORMS OF REFERENCE
If individual departments or instructors require that a particular style be used for quotations, footnotes, endnotes, bibliographies, etc., students should be made aware of that requirement. For most theses and dissertations, students will be asked to follow the guidelines to be found in The Chicago Manual of Style, (CMS), 14th ed. (University of Chicago Press, 1993) or the version of CMS in A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, (Turabian), 5th ed. by Kate Turabian (University of Chicago Press, 1987). Otherwise, for standard forms students may consult: The MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, (MLA), 4th ed. (New York: Modern Language Association of America, 1995) in the humanities; or the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA), 4th ed. (New York: American Psychological Association, 1994) in the social sciences.

Examples of Plagiarism
The following examples, from Rebecca Moore Howard’s "A Plagiarism Pentimento" (Journal of Teaching Writing, Summer 1993), are provided to help prevent any misunderstanding. Please read and analyze them carefully.

Original Wording:
"Such 'story myths' are not told for their entertainment value. They provide answers to questions people ask about life, about society and about the world in which they live" (10).

Misuse of Source (1):
Specifically, story myths serve as answers to questions people ask about life, about society and about the world in which they live, not for entertainment purposes.

Comment
This is an example of plagiarism as defined in this booklet. The student copied words and phrases from the original without acknowledging their source. Although the student has rearranged some phrases and made minor stylistic changes, this version still follows the basic wording and structure of the original while the student repeats ideas as if they were his or her own.

Misuse of Source (2): Davidson explains that story myths answer questions people ask about life, about society and about the world that we live in (10).

Comment
Less obviously, this example is also classified as plagiarism. Although the student cites the source of the ideas, he or she presents Davidson's exact words as if he or she authored them. As is often the case in such plagiarism, where the words are changed, the changes render the material less clear (shifting from "people" to "we" for example).
HOW TO AVOID UNINTENTIONAL PLAGIARISM

Unintentional plagiarism is also a breach of academic integrity and may be punished accordingly. Unintentional plagiarism, also known as patch writing, occurs when students depend too heavily on textual material to make a point rather than making the point themselves and using the text to support it. The second example of plagiarism above is an example of patch writing; it may be rewritten in several different ways:

Misuse of Source (2): Davidson explains that story myths answer questions people ask about life, about society and about the world that we live in (10).

(A) Rewritten with Correct Citation:
Davidson explains that “story myths” answer “questions people ask about life, about society and about the world in which they live” (10).

(B) Paraphrased: As Davidson explains, the importance of “story myths” is in their relevance to the everyday lives of their readers (10).

(C) Use of Paraphrase and Quotation in a Paragraph:
“Story myths” are powerful because they deal with phenomena that people cannot understand in any other way. As Davidson explains, story myths have direct relevance to the everyday lives of their readers by “provid[ing] answers to questions” (10).

Comment
In the rewritten version of the plagiarized sentence (a), the student has quoted all of the words that came directly from Davidson. Although this is an acceptable sentence, obviously such extensive quotation would not be acceptable throughout a research paper. In the sample paraphrase (b), the writer has maintained and correctly cited the essential idea in Davidson’s sentence, but the articulation of that idea is original, very different from the source. This is an example of an appropriate use of source material. In the final example (c), the writer has used Davidson’s analysis to support a point he or she is making about the role of “story myths,” and combined paraphrase and quotation to show how Davidson supports the assertion. This is the most common way to use source material in academic papers.

Notice that in all three examples the writer introduces the source material with a signal phrase naming the author and marks the end of the use of that source material with a parenthetical page reference. Although the exact method of citation varies across the disciplines, the purpose—to mark the beginning and end of material drawn from another source—remains the same.

PROCEDURES FOR HEARING CASES OF ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

This procedure applies retroactively for theses and dissertations accepted in good faith by the Drew University Theological School toward completion of a degree, but later suspected of being plagiarized in part or in full.

1. Instructors or others suspecting plagiarism shall report alleged cases of academic dishonesty to the Associate Academic Dean of the Theological School. Students should help to maintain the standards of the University by reporting all cases of academic dishonesty they observe. The usual response to an allegation that the Academic Integrity Policy has been violated is for the Associate Academic Dean to convene an Academic Integrity Committee as described below.

2. When allegations of academic dishonesty are brought, the Associate Academic Dean will notify the student, convene, and chair an Academic Integrity committee made up of one faculty member, the reporting instructor, the student’s adviser, and, should the student desire it, one other person of the accused student’s choosing, usually a member of the University community. When any member of this committee believes that he or she should not hear a case because of a possible conflict of interest, that member should excuse him or herself.

3. The student may request, and will be granted, up to a week to prepare his or her response before being called before the committee. In the first stage of the hearing, both the faculty member bringing the allegation and the accused student will be present and each will make an oral statement to the committee and answer any questions. At this stage, either may ask to address the committee without the other’s being present and will be granted the right to do so.

4. The student, the reporting faculty member, and the student’s advocate will be asked to wait outside the room while the committee discusses the case, and either may be called back into the room to answer questions. At the end of their deliberations on the case, the Associate Academic Dean, the one faculty member, and the student’s adviser will vote on the matter.
5. A decision of responsible or not responsible will be based on a preponderance of the evidence in the case; however, other factors, such as any prior accusations or any mitigating circumstances, may be taken into account in the determination of penalty.

6. In all cases, both the student and the faculty member bringing the allegations may appeal the decision as described below. All documents relating to the case will be placed on file in the office of the Associate Academic Dean, where they will remain until the student’s file is destroyed three years after graduation.

Penalties

The individual merits of each case are weighed by the committee, which determines the penalty accordingly. The committee considers the purpose both of the hearing and the penalty to be educational; penalties are determined with that in mind.

First Offense: The maximum penalty is a failing grade for the course and a suspension for one semester from the Theological School. Other penalties may include, but are not limited to, denial of some or all honors conferred by the University, and loss of credit for the assignment or the course.

When the committee finds that a violation has occurred, a letter stating the committee’s ruling will be placed in the student’s permanent file in the Registrar’s office. Any such letters will be a part of the record in subsequent cases and appeals.

Second Offense: The maximum penalty is expulsion from Drew and/or the revocation of a degree issued by Drew.

Alternative Resolution Procedure

1. The student (with a support person of his/her choosing if desired), the instructor, and the Associate Academic Dean meet to look over the alleged violation.

2. The student admits misusing sources and violating the Academic Integrity Policy and agrees to correct the work in a manner satisfactory to the course instructor.

3. The student completes and signs a form that describes the violation and the corrective measures to be undertaken and includes a promise that the problem will not occur again.

4. The instructor completes and signs a form that describes the incident and certifies that it has been resolved satisfactorily. That form, together with all documentary material from the case, will be placed on file in the office of the Associate Academic Dean, where it will remain until the student’s file is destroyed three years after the student graduates.

5. If the student is later found to have committed another violation of the standards of academic integrity, the documentary material on file from any prior invocation of the Alternative Resolution Procedure will be used as evidence of a first offense in the penalty phase of the hearing and the penalty will be more severe than it would be for a first offense.

Appeal Process

1. Decisions of the Academic Integrity committee may be appealed only if new evidence has been found, or if the original hearing overlooked specific evidence, or committed procedural errors.

2. The Dean’s Council is the final appeals board for cases of academic dishonesty. The appeal, whether sought by the faculty member who brought the allegation or by the student, must be submitted in writing. On the basis of the written appeal, the committee may decide to hear the case or to uphold the original decision if no new evidence has been presented, if no evidence has been shown to have been overlooked, and/or if no procedural errors have been shown to have occurred. Whatever its decision, the Dean’s Council must provide reasons in writing to both parties. If the committee agrees to hear the case, it has the right to reverse the decision of an earlier hearing.

3. When any member of the committee believes he or she should not hear the matter under appeal because of a possible conflict of interest, that member may be excused.

4. During the hearing of the appeal, the faculty member who brought the original allegation will provide information and answer questions. The student may be accompanied and advised by a member of the faculty of his or her choice and will also provide information and answer questions.

5. Decisions will be based on a preponderance of the evidence and will be provided in writing to both parties.

Academic Progress

Students are expected to maintain satisfactory progress, as determined by the Theological School and the Academic Standing Committee. Students who fall behind in either grades or credit hours will be subject to review, as described below.

- Withdrawing: Any student who receives all “U’s” in any one semester may be recommended for withdrawal.

- Academic Warning: Full-time students in the Master of Divinity (M.Div.), Master of Theological Studies (M.T.S.), or Master of Sacred Theology (S.T.M.) completing less than 9 credit hours/semester. (Students on Terminal Probation are excluded from this qualitative requirement).

- Probation: M.Div. and M.T.S. students with a semester or cumulative GPA between 1.99 and 1.40. S.T.M. students with a semester or cumulative GPA between 3.32 and 3.00. During the probationary semester the student would be restricted to 10 credit hours.

- Strict Probation
A. M.Div. and M.T.S. students with a semester or cumulative GPA between 1.39 and 1.00. S.T.M. students with a semester or cumulative GPA between 2.99 and 2.00.

B. Students with two consecutive semesters on Probation. Students on this status are restricted to 10 credit hours during the probationary semester and must complete at least 9 credit hours. M.Div. and M.T.S. students must maintain a minimum 2.00 for the probationary semester and S.T.M. students must maintain a minimum 3.33 for the probationary semester. Students who do not attain these minimums may be recommended for academic leave or withdrawal.

• Terminal Probation

A. M.Div. and M.T.S. students with a semester or cumulative GPA below 1.00. S.T.M. students with a semester or cumulative GPA below 2.00.

B. Students with two non-consecutive semesters on Strict Probation. Students on this status are restricted to 10 credit hours and must complete at least 6 credit hours. M.Div. and M.T.S. students must maintain a minimum 2.00 for the probationary semester and S.T.M. students must maintain a minimum 3.33 for the probationary semester. Students who do not attain these minimums may be recommended for withdrawal without appeal.

The English Language Program is offered to non-native English-speaking students by the ESOL Department as a non-credit, academic-support program. The program is designed to assist students in all aspects of their English language development while studying at the Theological School. Since it is assumed that matriculated students have developed their English language skills to the level of proficiency required for admission, its primary objective is to provide students with supplementary developmental language instruction that will enable them to engage both actively and productively in their academic experience at Drew. Participation in the program is open to all students matriculated in the Theological School.

The program comprises the following offerings

For first-year M.Div. students
• Courses designed to further develop speaking, pronunciation, writing and critical-thinking skills, which complement first-year required courses.
• Individual weekly appointments to assist students with specific language-related tasks and skills.

For all Theological School students
• Mini-courses which are offered to target specific skills, such as pronunciation, listening comprehension, interviewing techniques, and appropriate methods of documentation for written assignments.
• An ESOL Film Festival is held each semester to encourage oral discussion.
• Conversation Partners Program which provides students and their spouses the opportunity to further develop their ability to engage in informal conversation. Partners meet for one hour, once a week, in a mutually agreed upon location. For further information, please contact Ms. Vogel.
• Individual consultations, by appointment, for purposes of reviewing the organization, content, and appropriate documentation of research papers, presentations, and reports. All appointments must be scheduled by Ms. Vogel, either by phone, in person, or e-mail.
• PASTH 549A,B,C Communication Skills for Liturgical Settings. One credit; three levels of instruction. Using various forms of liturgical texts, students have the opportunity to develop skills and strategies for effective oral delivery. Students meet instructor individually on a weekly basis.

For further information on the program, please contact the ESOL Office. See also Conversation Partners and Spouses Program on page 43.

EXTENSIONS FOR COURSES

If you find it impossible to complete all your course requirements on time, you may file a petition for an extension. If the extension is granted, the instructor will give you a grade of “I” (incomplete) for the course. If the work is submitted within the extended period, the instructor will grade it and give you a final grade for the course. The work is to be submitted to the secretary to the faculty within the extension period. If an extension is not granted, or if it is granted and you fail to submit the work within the extension period, you will receive a “U” for the course.
Procedure for Petition

• Pick up a petition form from the Academic Dean’s Office in Seminary Hall 102
• Fill it out, sign it, and secure the approval of your adviser and the instructor of the course
• Submit the completed petition to the Academic Dean’s Office

Petitions for extension are granted normally only if extenuating circumstances prevent a student from meeting course deadlines. Circumstances such as serious illness which disrupts class attendance, unexpected death in the immediate family, emergency demands made upon a student in a student pastorate (i.e. a call to minister in a sudden bereavement at the same time as a student's illness which disrupts class attendance, unexpected death in the immediate family, emergency demands made upon a student in a student pastorate (i.e. a call to minister in a sudden bereavement at the same time as an examination). As a general rule, extensions will not be granted to allow students more time for research due to unavailability of material, emotional stress (unless documented by a physician), etc.

GUIDELINES AND EXAMPLES

A. Human Beings

1. Use inclusive terms rather than generic language that has the effect of making women invisible and assumes males are more representative of the human race.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Exclusive</th>
<th>Inclusive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Man, men, mankind</td>
<td>People, all people, persons, men and women, humanity, everyone, all of us, we, all, kin, folk,</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2. Avoid using masculine pronouns generically.

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>he, him, his</td>
<td>he/she, we, our, their, one, the one, the person, individual</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Each leader must do his utmost. Leaders must do their utmost

3. Find functional substitutes for problem words. An alternative choice of words often not only avoids abrasion to legitimate sensitivities, but also achieves greater accuracy.

B. God

In the “Guidelines” it is stated in the introduction that the normative language of theology and worship limits comprehension of the full nature of God. It notes the neglect of Biblical feminine images of God. The introduction concludes:

The results of this tradition of emphasizing masculine imagery and ignoring feminine aspects of God have been to limit the possibilities for women to understand themselves as created in God’s image, to perpetuate sexist attitudes in our society, to limit our understanding of God.

The difficulties of exclusively masculine language are not to be solved by making God impersonal. There are many words for God that embody the reality of our personal relationship with God, yet are not exclusively masculine.

INCLUSIVE LANGUAGE

Inclusive language is encouraged in written assignments and in classroom discussions and there are many excellent books and pamphlets that discuss inclusive and emancipatory language. For a short, easy-to-read explanation about the theology behind the practice, we suggest this work by the Task Force on Language Guidelines--“Words That Hurt, Words That Heal: Language About God and People.” Nashville: Graded Press, 1990. (Cokesbury item #147130).

INTERNET COURSES

The Theological School offers a number of courses on the Internet. Course offerings are available to those who live a distance from campus and/or students who have full-time jobs. Check the Theological Admissions Web site, drew.edu, for registration guidelines. The Registrar’s Web site, depts.drew.edu/registr, carries the listings for each semester.

LEARNING DIFFERENCES

Anne Yardley, Associate Academic Dean, Seminary Hall 102, x3419

Edye Lawler, Dean of Educational Affairs, Brothers College 113, x3327

Carolyn Rooney, Assistant Director of Educational Services, Brothers College 119, x3355

Drew has developed supports and guidelines for helping enrolled students with learning differences to function effectively in the academic environment. Though learning-disabled students must meet the same academic standards as other students, the University is committed to helping them achieve success.

A student who wishes to request special accommodations due to learning disabilities should provide the Associate Academic Dean with a professional diagnosis accompanied by the professional’s suggestions for appropriate alternative educational methods. At the request of the student, the Associate Academic Dean will then notify the student’s professors and work with the professors and student to negotiate an appropriate educational solution. For more information see the Associate Academic Dean or the Dean of Educational Affairs. If you would like to be tested for learning differences, contact the Counseling Center at x3398.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE/WITHDRAWAL POLICY

Associate Academic Dean Anne Yardley, Seminary Hall 102, x3419

Associate Dean for Contextual Learning Virginia Samuel Seminary Hall 102, x3418

VOLUNTARY LEAVE OF ABSENCE

A leave of absence is occasionally advisable for any number of reasons—family emergency, financial distress, illness, etc. A student may leave for one or two semesters and return, or choose a different course of action. If you are considering such a break, talk it over with your academic adviser or an Associate Dean of the Theological School. You must fill out a leave-of-absence form, available in Seminary Hall 102, to avoid being billed for the following term. The form must be signed by the Associate Deans listed above.

RE-ADMISSION/RE-ENTRY

Students on a voluntary leave of absence who wish to return to Drew must fill out a re-entry form and schedule an appointment with an Associate Dean of the Theological School (at least one month prior to return). This form must be signed by both Associate Deans (see above).

SEPARATION FROM THE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL

Drew Theological School reserves the right, upon recommendation of the deans, to separate from the school any student who fails to meet the standards of academic or community life; or whose character or personal maturity raises reasonable doubts about the student’s fitness for ministry or theological education. Students may also be separated from the school for failure to meet their financial obligations. There will be no refund of tuition and fees for a student who is suspended, expelled, or required to withdraw.

WITHDRAWAL AND DISMISSAL POLICY

A student may withdraw voluntarily or may be asked to leave the University. The following policies apply:

Academic Withdrawal: A student may be required to withdraw for unsatisfactory scholarship. This decision is made by the Academic Standing Committee.

Medical Leave/Withdrawal: At the request of the student, the Associate Academic Dean or the Associate Dean of Contextual Learning (in consultation with physicians and counselors) is authorized to effect a withdrawal for reasons of health. The student must schedule an appointment with one of the associate deans prior to returning to school.

In exceptional circumstances, the dean is authorized to require a student to withdraw for reasons of physical or psychological health without prejudice to consideration of an application for re-admission. This action might occur if, in the judgment of the University, the student could not benefit from the available, limited therapeutic resources of the University, if the student were threatening to self and/or others, or if the student were of a disruptive concern to others.

Non-Academic Withdrawal: Among the sanctions the University can impose to protect its community are the following types of withdrawal:

1. Expulsion: Unconditional separation from the University. The expelled student is barred from campus and all University-sponsored activities.

2. Suspension (from the University or from University-owned housing): The student is required to withdraw from the University for a specified period of time not to exceed one calendar year or not to be less than the remainder of the current semester. Upon expiration of the suspension period, re-admission to the University (or to housing) must be evaluated but is likely. Evaluation is based upon the documented progress (as appropriate) the student has made.

3. Voluntary Withdrawal: A student may choose to withdraw from the Theological School voluntarily. It is essential that he/she notify the University by filling out a withdrawal form (available in Seminary Hall 102) and securing the signatures of both associate deans. The enrollment deposit and security deposit are forfeited if the University is not formally notified of withdrawal by August 1 (for the fall semester) or December 1 (for the spring semester).

Students leaving later than the end of the ninth week of classes, and before the end of a given semester, will be subject to grades of “U” at the time of withdrawal, unless a recommendation for withdrawal (“W”) is made by the one of the associate deans of the Theological School.

There will be no refund of tuition and fees for a student who is suspended (from the University or from housing), expelled, or asked to withdraw.

PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL ILLNESSES AND FAMILY CRISIS

Associate Academic Dean Anne Yardley, Seminary Hall 102, x3419

A student who is unable to complete work or attend class due to a physical or emotional illness or family crisis should notify the Office of the Associate Academic Dean and provide appropriate corroboration from a physician or other qualified professional. At the request of the student, the Associate Academic Dean will notify the student’s professors and work with the professors and student to negotiate appropriate deadlines for completion of coursework.
GRIEVANCE POLICY

INTRODUCTION
Drew Theological School has established the following grievance procedures to give the community a process with which to deal with matters perceived as unfair or discriminatory between individuals within the community. This policy is to be used in settling grievances involving faculty members, students, staff, and/or administrators who are part of the Theological School community. These procedures assume the principle that ways should be found to work out our differences fairly and amicably within our community and when possible without resorting to University procedures for dealing with misconduct or abuse of human rights. (Violations of the Sexual Harassment Policy are specifically excluded from this policy. That policy offers both an informal and a formal procedure already. The specific appeal of a grade is already cared for in our regulations.) In no case do the procedures listed below preclude the possibility that the grievant will take more formal action through University channels.

Individuals within the Theological School community who perceive that another member of the community has acted in an unfair or discriminatory way should request a meeting with that colleague in order to discuss the matter and express their concern. All members of the community are encouraged to attempt to resolve differences between themselves and others in this manner.

INFORMAL PROCEDURE
If the grievant has not reached a resolution through a direct conversation he/she may invite a third person into the conversation for an informal procedure of resolution. If a student or a staff person is involved, that person might be a dean. If both parties are faculty members the third party might be another faculty member—possibly someone from the Committee on Faculty. If either person is an administrator, the third person might be a faculty member or a dean. All parties to this conversation should agree to keep the conversation confidential. If either or both of the parties is not a native speaker of English, it may be helpful to have someone who speaks the native language present to help avoid miscommunication.

If a resolution cannot be achieved through this informal process, the grievant may decide not to proceed with the complaint or may begin the more formal grievance procedures below.

FORMAL PROCEDURES
While this is called the formal procedures, it does not move the situation out of the Theological School community into University policy. All people participating in these procedures are required to keep the information presented and the content of the conversations confidential.

First, both parties are asked to put in writing their own interpretation of the grievance. After the Dean of the Theological School has read these reports, the dean will request the two parties to sit together with the dean and attempt reconciliation. The goal of this meeting is to try to find the truth within the remembrance and through this rehearing of the details help the individuals reach reconciliation. Written material will not be saved from this meeting.

If reconciliation is not reached, the next step will be to gather a group of peers to hear the individuals involved. Again, the goal will be to resolve the issue within the community. While the group will have no authority to penalize anyone it is hoped that the wisdom of the group will help all to reach reconciliation. The group might include five people with two chosen by each of the two individuals involved. The fifth person could be a dean or a member of the Committee on Faculty at the request of the grievant.

This process does not exclude the grievant from access to University procedures at any time along the process, or at this stage, when these steps have been completed without an acceptable resolution. Nor is this policy to be construed to inhibit or prevent the grievant from reconsidering an informal resolution with the individual at any time in the process.
MISSION STATEMENT AND PHILOSOPHY OF THE UNIVERSITY
Excellence in liberal education at Drew requires scholarly and creative faculty who teach effectively, intellectually prepared students who want to learn, and alumni/ae who support their endeavors. This excellence emphasizes the inter-relatedness of learning in the undergraduate, graduate, and theological schools and promotes intellectual rigor and responsible citizenship, while preparing individuals for eventful lives.

Drew University endeavors to create a distinctive environment for liberal education. Characteristics of this environment are an ethos of curiosity and achievement with an intentionally intimate community of learning, emphasizing close student-faculty relationships, and close partnerships among students. This ethos includes respect for individuality and appreciation of diversity. Drew University places special attention on the ongoing evaluation and improvement of teaching and learning, the uses of technology, and the global context of knowledge.

DIVERSITY STATEMENT
Drew University is committed to seeking academic excellence while striving continuously to be a welcoming, diverse, and socially just campus. We aspire to provide an education that in content, scope, and pedagogy embraces difference and promotes respect that extends beyond the classroom to all University spaces and to local and global communities. Diversity encompasses multiple dimensions, including, but not limited to, race, culture, nationality, ethnicity, geographic origin, class, sexual orientation, gender, disability, age, and religion. Our intent is to achieve a learning environment in which students, faculty, and staff understand the challenges, accomplishments, and perspectives of various groups of people, thus gaining a fuller understanding of themselves as well as how to engage in conversation spanning differences and commonalities. Achieving this vision is a fundamental commitment critical to Drew University’s mission as an institution of higher learning.

DREW HISTORY
(Short Version)
Building upon the success and reputation of Drew Theological Seminary (which was chartered in 1868), the College admitted its first class of 12 students in 1928. In 1955, The Graduate School, having had a distinguished history at Drew since 1912, was established as a separate division.

During the American War for Independence, General Nathaniel Greene billeted his troops under the great oaks of what is now the Drew Forest. Today that same lush woodland provides a peaceful setting for vigorous intellectual activity.

The Drew University Library, built in 1939, is one of the largest academic libraries in New Jersey with special strengths in religion and theology, English and American literature, and modern European and American intellectual and cultural history. The Archives and History Center of the United Methodist Church opened on the Drew campus in 1982.

In 1984, Drew became the first liberal arts college to provide personal computers to all its students as part of their tuition. The “Computer Initiative” was later expanded to include the Graduate School and then the Theological School. The arrival of the 10th president, Thomas H. Kean, in 1990 began another period of extraordinary vitality in the University. In 1994, the William E. and Carol G. Simon Forum and Athletic Center was added.

In 1999, Dr. Barbara Caspersen G’86 and Finn Caspersen provided a $5 million endowment for the Graduate School, which has had its name changed to the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies in their honor.

On July 1, 2005, the University welcomed its 11th president, Dr. Robert Weisbuch. Formerly head of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, President Weisbuch served 25 years at the University of Michigan, in positions including Chair of the Department of English, Associate Vice President for Research, and interim Dean of the Rackham School of Graduate Studies.
As the 21st century unfolds, the University is confident that it will continue to provide its students with an excellent education that blends the timeless values of the liberal arts with contemporary ways of knowing. It is an education that Drew graduates will value throughout their lives.

ACADEMIC DIVISIONS OF DREW UNIVERSITY

Drew University consists of three academic divisions: The College of Liberal Arts (CLA), the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies (CSGS), and the Theological School (TS).

The College of Liberal Arts offers majors in 29 disciplines, minors in another 18, and enrolls some 1,400 students.

The Caspersen School of Graduate Studies consists of about 400 students who seek either a professional academic degree (the Master of Arts [M.A.] or Doctor of Philosophy [Ph.D.] degree) or enroll in the Arts and Letters program to pursue a Master of Letters (M.Litt.) or Doctor of Letters (D.Litt.) degree, or in the Medical Humanities Program for a Certificate (C.M.H.), Master’s (M.M.H.), or Doctoral (D.M.H.) degree.

Drew’s Theological School enrolls about 300 students, 200 of whom are in traditional, campus-based programs. Other students are enrolled at several off-site centers around the United States studying for the Doctor of Ministry degree. Founded as a Methodist Seminary, today the school’s students and faculty represent an international, ecumenical mix.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

As an incorporated, not-for-profit center of higher learning, Drew University is governed by a volunteer board of trustees who together hold financial and legal (fiduciary) responsibility for the University. The Drew board numbers between 40 and 50 and meets three times a year to conduct the business of the University. Standing committees meet on a more regular basis.

PRESIDENT

The President is the executive head of the University as well as the institution’s chief planning officer and the head (and a member) of each of Drew’s faculties. Since July 2005, Drew’s president has been Dr. Robert Weisbuch. President Weisbuch’s office is in Mead Hall.

DANIEL DREW, UNIVERSITY FOUNDER

The Wall Street tycoon who told friends that he “wanted to do something for the Methodist Church,” in 1867 supplied $250,000 for the real estate and endowment of the Drew Theological Seminary—the largest gift to American higher education at the time. The financier, whose early cattle dealings gave birth to the term “watered stock,” managed the school’s endowment through stock and bond manipulations until, in 1875, his speculative practices nearly bankrupted the young seminary.

In life, Drew failed to silence those critics who believed his gift to the seminary was an attempt to buy his way into heaven. In death, the founder continues to struggle against his robber baron reputation. In 1973, when a handful of Drew students volunteered to help the Brewster, N.Y. Landmarks Preservation Committee restore the financier’s grave site, one student detractor remarked that “his grave might better be left to the insults of nature and his fellow thieves.”
THE DREW CAMPUS

DOROTHY YOUNG CENTER FOR THE ARTS
Made possible by a $14 million gift to the University, DoYo (as it’s affectionately called by students) opened its doors in January ’03. The arts center is home to the studio arts and theatre arts departments, as well as the music department. The art wing includes two galleries, studios for design, painting, printmaking, sculpture, ceramics, and drawing, in addition to seminar rooms and faculty offices. The theatre arts area includes a “black box” theatre with flexible seating, dressing rooms, scenery and costume shops, directing and acting labs, plus faculty offices and classrooms.

Groundbreaking for the music wing began in August 2003. Completed in 2004, the centerpiece of the wing is a 433-seat concert hall. There is also a music library, electronics studio, and an ensemble practice room, along with faculty offices.

DREW FOREST
“The Forest” was the name given in the 1700s to the land which, in the 1800s, became the summer estate of Georgia-born planter and businessman William Gibbons and his family. As the Gibbons property through the early 1860s, it was formally called The Forest. Since the property’s ownership and occupation by Drew, it has continued to be called “The Forest” (hence, the name, “The University in the Forest”).

The Forest Preserve is located on campus, a 38-acre area set aside for posterity from among Drew’s 186 acres. The entrance to the nature walk is to the right of the Forum and the tennis courts. Within the Preserve are two glacially formed ponds and the Zuck Arboretum, an outdoor lab facility for the science department (and a great place to cross-country ski). Also of note: The Hardin Oak, a 400-year-old tree named for a past president of Drew.

MEAD HALL
From the time of its construction in 1836 to the present, Mead Hall has lived a storied history. Named for Daniel Drew’s wife (Roxanna Mead) and built in the Greek Revival style, the mansion predates the founding of the University. A fire devastated Mead Hall in August 1989. Thanks, however, to a $13 million project (funded in part by the New Jersey Historic Trust) the building has been restored to its pre-Civil War splendor. Individual contributions also helped refurbish the structure, the largest coming from the late Jeff Smith (aka the “Frugal Gourmet”), an alumnus of the Theological School and parent of a CLA ’93 graduate.

Today, Mead Hall is the architectural focus of the campus. Small seminar rooms can be found on the first floor and basement. The President’s Office, the Provost’s Office, the Office of the Vice President for Administration, the Dean of the College, Dean of the Theological School, and the Chief Communications Officer are located on the second floor. It is listed on the federal and state registers of historic places. University-wide Commencement exercises are held on the back lawn.
SEMINARY HALL
If Mead Hall is the heart of Drew, unostentatious Seminary Hall is its spiritual foundation. Thirteen months and $100,000 went into erecting this two-story "imitation collegiate" Gothic structure, faced with Harvard brick and trimmed with pink granite. When it opened a century ago, Seminary classes moved out of Mead Hall and into the building’s six classrooms.

At dedication ceremonies in 1899, Seminary Hall was described in the following manner: "...so perfect are its arrangements, so harmonious is its architecture, so definite and yet so beautiful are the plans upon which it has been carried out, that, to quote from a hymn with which all good Methodists are familiar, one is fairly 'lost in wonder, love, and pride'."

Today, Seminary Hall is the oldest building on campus and home to the Theological School. During the 2004-05 academic year it was closed for extensive renovations. Phase I included the addition of a new wing that holds an elevator making the entire building (including Craig Chapel) accessible. The wing also contains new bathrooms, four new seminar rooms, a preaching lab, a communications lab, and a new student common area. Phase II (which includes renovation of the current building) and Phase III (a new chapel) are anticipated but are dependent on fundraising.

S.W. BOWNE HALL
This stately building was constructed of New Hampshire granite in 1912 and completed the following year. It is a replica of the magnificent Christ Church Hall in England, where John Wesley and other Methodists had eaten while attending Oxford. Samuel Bowne, who died in 1910, changed his will to provide the necessary funding for the building. Originally designed as a dormitory and dining hall, today it is home to the Caspersen School of Graduate Studies (CSGS).

In addition to the offices of the Interim Dean and Associate Dean, it is home to Graduate School Admissions, the Graduate Student Association (GSA), the directors of the Arts and Letters Program, the offices of the Philosophy Department, and Thompson Commons.

STATUE OF FRANCIS ASBURY
The bronze equestrian statue positioned in front of Mead Hall was donated by William S. Pilling, a trustee of the school. It celebrates the mission of Bishop Francis Asbury, who was the first episcopal leader of the Methodist Church in America. Dedicated in 1926, Drew President Ezra Squier Tipple accepted the statue, indicating its "first mission was to give students faith, zeal, and devotion."

UNITED METHODIST ARCHIVES AND HISTORY CENTER
Charles Yrigoyen, General Secretary, x3189
This building, located across the courtyard from the Library, houses the United Methodist Church Archives and is home to the United Methodist Historical Society and the United Methodist Church’s General Commission on Archives and History. Informative displays about the history of Methodism can be found in its lobby. The Center also houses a 100,000-volume collection of books relating to Methodism dating from the 18th century to the present—as well as many periodicals (including current issues). It is a research facility, so materials can be used only in the building, but it is definitely worth a visit.

ZUCK ARBORETUM
Honoring a couple who served on the botany faculty for more than 30 years, the board of trustees established the Florence and Robert Zuck Arboretum in 1980. Situated along the Loantaka Way side of campus, behind the Copper Beech complex, it is a wooded area incorporating two glacial ponds, a mix of native and introduced trees, and a variety of flowering plants and shrubs. Although the arboretum is open to the public for passive recreation, it is not a public park. Rather, it is an outdoor laboratory whose rare and irreplaceable resources serve primarily to enhance students’ education. The Department of Biology routinely runs fragile experiments in the arboretum area.

CHECKING OUT MATERIALS
Your ID card is your Library card. Theological students in the M.DIV and M.T.S. program have a 30-day borrowing period. S.T.M, D.MIN, and graduate students have two fixed due dates for library materials: June 1 and December 1. Items may be renewed four times. Students can view or renew their Library materials online through “My Library Account” at http://catalog.drew.edu. A $10 overdue fine is automatically placed on any item 40 days overdue. Long overdue items are considered lost and a $75 book-replacement fee per item is sent to the Business Office. All items are subject to recall for another user after a 30-day borrowing period. Items needed for Reserve may be recalled at any time. All Library notices and information are sent to the Drew email address. Students are responsible for checking their email and responding to Library notices. Drew email can be forwarded to another email address. See Library Web site for details.

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE
Reference librarians can provide instruction and guidance to students engaged in research. Brief questions can be answered at the Reference Desk and more in-depth assistance is available through research consultations that may be scheduled in advance by asking at the Reference Desk or emailing reference@drew.edu.
RESERVE MATERIALS
Many professors put materials on Closed Reserve to ensure they are available for an entire class. These materials may be checked out for two hours (audio/visual materials may be checked out for four hours) but all Closed Reserve materials must be used inside the Library. The only exception to in-Library use of Reserve materials is that most Drew-owned books may be checked out overnight. For information regarding materials available in the Reserve Room, log on to http://catalog.drew.edu, click on the “Reserve Room,” and follow the instructions.

STUDY CARRELS/LOCKERS
The Library has a limited number of lockers, private study carrels, and study rooms available to students engaged in extensive, Library-based research. Usage requirements must be met. Refer to http://depts.drew.edu/lib/docs/carr_pp.php for policies and procedures, and http://depts.drew.edu/lib/docs/carrelguidelines.php for eligibility guidelines. Graduate students in dissertation stage have priority. Application forms and copies of Policies and Procedures are available at the Library Circulation Counter. Daily study carrels are available; sign up at the Reserve Desk.

CORNELL ROOM
This room on E-level contains the Library’s theological reference books as well as materials on church history and religious studies. It is also a quiet, comfortable study space used mainly by grad/theo students.

OBSERVATORY
dep.ts.drew.edu/phys/Astronomy/astronomy.html
Laurie Morgus, Assistant Professor of Physics
Hall of Sciences 200, x3834
Hours of operation: x3500
Friday nights are “public nights” at the Drew Observatory, which is open to students from 7 to 10 p.m. (EST) and 8 to 11 p.m. (DST) when school is in session during the fall and spring semesters.
Come see star clusters, planets, galaxies, and occasional satellites. A student assistant will be on hand to help explain phenomena and lead a discussion afterwards. The observatory, with its 16-inch DFM telescope, is located on the east corner of the Hall of Sciences roof (entrance on parking lot side). Call x3500 to check if it’s open on Friday nights of questionable weather.

REGISTRAR, OFFICE OF
dep.ts.drew.edu/regist
Horace Tate, Registrar, Tilghman House, x3025
Mark Holcomb, Manager of Office Systems, x3245
The Office of the Registrar maintains student records and is responsible for the processing of grades, transcripts, and course registration. In addition, the office compiles academic-standing information. Catalogues and registration materials are distributed from here, as well as information regarding transferring credits from other schools and changing, adding, and dropping classes.

Transcripts are available free of charge to graduate and theological students but must be requested at least seven working days in advance of the date they are to be issued. Same-day or one-day processing may be requested but students will then be charged $10. Additionally, in order for transcripts to be issued, grad/theo students must first be cleared by the Business Office, as outstanding balances may prevent transcripts from being released.
All changes in a student’s marital status, address, or phone number should be reported to the Registrar.

ADD/DROP
Add/drop forms are used whenever you wish to make a change in your schedule after registration has ended. Forms are available in the Office of the Registrar. You must have your adviser’s signature on this form before you add or drop a class.

COURSE LISTS
The course list for each semester is published on the Campus Web by the Office of the Registrar. Paper copies are maintained in the Registrar’s Office.

GRADUATION, APPLICATION FOR
Friday, September 8th is a red-letter day if you plan to graduate in October 2006. Monday, January 29th is the deadline if you plan to graduate in May 2007. Either date means you owe the Registrar’s Office a completed form that acts as a checklist against which the office makes certain that you are, in fact, ready to graduate. If you miss the deadline, there’s a $25 late fee. If you miss it by a long shot, you may not get your name in the Commencement program or receive a diploma at graduation.
PRIVACY OF STUDENT RECORDS (FERPA)
A student’s permanent record (grade reports, applications for programs abroad, correspondence with deans and other University officials, etc.) is maintained by both the Registrar and the Deans of the Caspersen School and the Theological School. This file is available to all faculty and administrators who have educational reasons for viewing it.

The University reserves the right to make public, at its discretion, the following which is considered to be directory information: name, class, campus mail box and telephone number, major field of study, hometown and state, dates of attendance at Drew, degrees, honors and awards received, previous educational institution most recently attended, and other similar information. In addition, under the Solomon Amendment, for the purpose of military recruitment, street address and birthplace are also considered directory information. A student who is unwilling to have this information revealed may notify the Caspersen School/ Theological School Dean or the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs in writing. The University will not make public a student’s home address or telephone number.

Note: Student files are destroyed three years after a student’s graduation or separation from the University, with the following exception: The files of students who have been involved in reportable offenses (such as assault, drugs, alcohol) will not be destroyed until three years following the final disclosure of Cleary statistics.

For a complete copy of the policy regarding the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (also known as FERPA or the Buckley Amendment) contact the Office of the Registrar or check the Registrar’s Web page. See also Rights and Responsibilities of Students in the Appendix.

SEMESTER HOURS
Monday – Thursday 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. and 6 – 8 p.m.

Note: Students must make appointments in advance, particularly in peak periods such as mid-terms and at the end of the semester.

The Writing Center provides one-on-one consultation for all phases of the writing process—from pre-writing exercises and brainstorming topics, to organizing and writing a draft, to helping revise the final copy.

The center helps students develop their own writing styles and ideas. While it offers help with grammar and spelling, it is not a proof-reading service. To benefit from the center, students should bring in a written draft of their paper at least several days in advance of the deadline. The center cannot provide much help if a paper is due in the next hour or in the afternoon.

The Writing Center works with all levels of writing—ranging from students returning to school after many years absence to doctoral candidates writing dissertations. It provides help with daily class assignments and journals, as well as longer essays, papers, methods of documentation, sermons, and Theo-min projects. It will help with resumes, graduate school applications, and articles for publication also.

CONSULTANTS
In addition to the director, there are several College consultants and some from the Caspersen School. Students may request a specific consultant.

Audra Tonero, Coordinator of Substance Awareness and Educational Programs, Hall of Sciences 342, x3318

The mission of Counseling and Psychological Services is to help students define and accomplish their personal and academic goals. Substance abuse, eating disorders, relationship problems, depression, stress, learning disabilities, and marital and family dynamics are just some of the issues the Counseling Center regularly addresses. There is no charge for services other than the mandatory health and counseling fee (with a few noted exceptions). Services are strictly confidential.

The department is an integral part of the educational mission of the University and supports it in a variety of ways. For example, we provide:

- Individual and group short-term counseling

ALCOHOL/DRUG COUNSELOR
Audra Tonero, Coordinator of Substance Awareness and Educational Programs, Hall of Sciences 342, x3318
The Substance Awareness Counselor (SAC) works with students and plans programs that are educational, preventive, and remedial in nature as related to the use of alcohol and/or other drugs. She does this in the following ways:

- Intervention and Prevention: The SAC assesses a student’s use of alcohol/other substances to determine if a problem (or potential problem) exists. Individual and group counseling could be provided or, if necessary, referral to an off-campus program.

- Campus Education: The SAC provides programs in campus housing. She collaborates with RAs, RDs, the Peer Assistance and Referral service (PAR), and Bacchus to design and implement preventive programs. She consults with various departments on campus in regard to alcohol/drugs and assists with non-alcoholic social events, co-sponsors Alcohol Awareness Week, and provides literature and referral information to the Drew community.

- Community Involvement: The SAC is an active participant in off-campus programs and organizations. You do not have to have an alcohol/drug problem to meet with and talk to the SAC. Among other reasons, a desire for information, a concern about others, or a willingness to help with programs are valid reasons to visit the coordinator. There is no fee for her services.

The Drew insurance plan has been designed to complement the services available on campus. It will provide complete or partial coverage for off-campus referrals or hospitalizations and will co-pay with other insurance up to $50,000. For more information about insurance and dependent coverage, see http://.depts.drew.edu/health/insurance/htm

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:
1. Can I use the Health Service if I do not enroll in the student plan? YES
All Drew students can use the University Health Service.

2. Does the Drew plan cover everything? NO
The student plan is a “sickness and accident plan” with some wellness services covered. It will cover medical expenses and hospitalizations up to $50,000. The plan is very low-cost because it presumes you will get most of your care at the University Health Service.

3. Can a spouse obtain health care at Drew? YES and NO
YES, if the spouse is enrolled in the Drew insurance plan for an additional fee (see above). NO, if the spouse is not enrolled in the insurance plan.

4. Can children obtain health care at Drew? NO
The Health Service does not provide pediatric care. Children can be enrolled in the student insurance plan, however, and can be referred to local pediatricians and well-baby clinics by the Health Service. Students with children on campus are urged to obtain well-baby care and vaccinations at the free clinics offered through local Health Departments. The cost of childhood vaccines is very high (up to $1000 for the first two years) so students are urged to take advantage of this free service to residents in order to keep our insurance costs low.

5. Do I have to buy the insurance plan if I have other coverage already? NO
Students may waive the student insurance plan online at www.universityhealthplans.com or by requesting a waiver card at 1-800/437-6448. International students may waive in person at the Business Office after they arrive on campus. Students who waive the plan must demonstrate that they have comparable coverage in person at the Health Service.

6. Should I purchase the optional catastrophic plan? PERHAPS
If the student plan is your only insurance, we strongly recommend that you purchase the catastrophic plan. The cost is just $300/person and it increases your coverage from $50,000 to $250,000/person. You cannot buy the optional plan for just one family member; you must buy it for the entire family if you choose this option.

The catastrophic plan might not be necessary for international students who plan to return home for treatment in the event of a serious health problem.

7. Does the insurance plan cover childbirth? YES and NO
If you or your spouse are enrolled in the insurance plan and one of you becomes pregnant, you will be eligible for maternity coverage. If you (or your spouse) are not enrolled in the plan at the time of pregnancy, the pregnancy will be considered a “pre-existing condition” and you will not be covered.
8. Will the plan cover the entire cost of childbirth? NO

You can expect some out-of-pocket expenses. The plan pays for 80% of charges over the first $2,500 and you are responsible for the other 20%. (In a “normal delivery,” this will amount to approximately $2,500). The cost of childbirth in the United States averages $15,000.

9. If I have any questions, whom should I call?

Please check the Health Service Web site first if you are enrolled in the student plan. If you do not find the answer to your questions, you should call your insurance provider or the University Health Service at 973/408-3414 during regular business hours. depts.drew.edu/health

To arrange for transport, contact the Public Safety Office, 973/408-3379.

This office aids international students when they first arrive and helps them to adjust to the United States, Drew, and other aspects of their new environment. The office develops and provides International Student Orientation as well as immigration advising for F and J status, programs, and activities. The coordinator also serves as adviser to the International Student Organization (ISO).

IMMIGRATION ADVISING

The International Student Services office issues I-20’s and DS2019’s and has professional staff who are both the Primary Designated School Official (PDSO) for F-1 matters and the Responsible Officer (RO) for J-1 matters. The coordinator aids students with F and J immigration issues such as extensions of stay, new visas, work authorization, change of status, reinstatement, and other immigration-related issues.

While the ISS Office aids students in many areas, it does not provide assistance with finances or funding for education or living expenses. Please contact the Office of Financial Assistance for help in these areas, x3404.

RELIGIOUS AND SPIRITUAL LIFE

A wide variety of worship, study, service, and fellowship opportunities is available at Drew. Historically affiliated with the United Methodist Church, Drew encourages an atmosphere of ecumenical and interfaith dialogue. Therefore, all religious traditions are regarded as traditions of learning and as important conversation partners in the academic and cultural community.

Under the direction of the Director of the Chapel and Religious Life, a staff of campus ministers work with students from the three schools of the University. Christians, Jews, Buddhists, Muslims, Hindus, and Pan Africans exercise their faith with integrity and engage each other in open dialogue. Various ecumenical and interfaith worship services occur throughout the year. In addition, the Theological School offers weekly worship services open to all students.

The Religious Life Council is an interfaith, representative body that includes students, faculty, and campus ministers from the different religious organizations. The goals of the council are to provide multicultural and interdisciplinary co-curricular learning opportunities that advance knowledge of religious traditions and that support the spiritual development of students. Additionally, the RLC plans various campus-wide events throughout the year, such as Festival of Lights, the Interfaith Leadership for Life program, and the Interfaith Storytelling Festival. The council also sponsors Spirituality House on Asbury 3rd floor.

Christine Rishiy, Interim Director of Residence Life
Holloway Annex, x3961

Sheila Beckford, Residence Director for Graduate and Theological students, x3055

Service Response Center, Facilities Office, Pepin Service Center, x3510

The Office of Residence Life endeavors to create a purposeful, open, safe, just, and celebrated living-learning environment in which all students may accomplish their personal and academic goals.

Under the supervision of the Director of Residence Life, a full-time Residence Director (RD) works to enhance the quality of life in grad/theo housing. In an emergency (fire, flood, etc.), if you cannot reach the RD, please contact Public Safety (x4444) for assistance.

To accomplish its mission, Residence Life staff members

• Communicate to students the University’s goals, expectations, and community standards
• Develop programs of an educational, social, or co-curricular nature
• Promote mutual respect and understanding in a diverse and open community
• Mediate and resolve conflicts
• Refer students to other student affairs offices (such as the Health Service or the Counseling Center) when appropriate
• Advise students about other University resources (such as clubs, organizations, and academic offices)
• Act as liaison between students and other University offices, such as HCH and Facilities

MOVING INTO YOUR HOUSING UNIT

Before moving into a residence, students must sign a housing agreement and return it to the Housing Office located on the ground floor of the Learning Center. This agreement explains the obligations and responsibilities of resident students at Drew University. See also Housing Office, page 58.

Residence Life staff will check you into your residence, provide you with a key, and prepare a “room condition report” (RCR) for your signature. Be sure to complete each of these steps before assuming occupancy. Call the Housing Office, x3037, or the Residence Life Office, x3394, if you have any questions.

RESIDENCE LIFE/RULES & REGULATIONS
dep.ts.drew.edu/res/life

There is a variety of living arrangements for grad/theo students ranging from private units (apartments in Wendel and Tipple) to shared ones (Green Villa and Loantaka). Hence, some of the regulations below apply more to one type of housing than another. All, however, are intended to make community living more productive and comfortable for everyone.

Air Conditioners

Students may purchase air conditioners, one unit per apartment. Units must be smaller than 9000 BTUs with 120 volt power supply. Installation requests should be made through Facilities, x3510. The unit can be installed only by the Facilities Office and there is a minimal fee for installation and electricity (which is the same whether you use the unit for one month or the entire summer). Place your unit underneath the window in which you wish it to be installed.

Removal of the unit in October is mandatory and a work order will be filed automatically on October 1st. Failure to register an air conditioner (via a work order) will result in a fine, due to the dangerous nature of an improperly installed A/C unit in a window.
Bicycle Storage
Bicycle racks are provided for your use. Be sure to secure your bicycles with a chain; storage is not allowed in stairways or basement hallways. Please register your bicycle with the Department of Public Safety. Unregistered bikes will be removed.

Check-in/Check-out
Prior to a student’s taking occupancy of a room/apartment, Residence Life staff will perform a careful inspection using an authorized check-in form (RCR). When the student later vacates the unit, it will be re-checked. Students are required to participate in the check-out process because they will be charged if conditions are unacceptable or damage has occurred. Students who fail to check out properly are subject to a fine and waive their right to appeal damage charges. For details, see MOVING OUT OF YOUR HOUSING UNIT below.

Cleaning
Students are responsible for keeping their living spaces clean. Failure to do so can lead to health and safety (and fire safety) fines and suspension from campus housing.

Common Areas
Lounges, bathrooms, kitchens, laundry rooms, and hallways must be maintained in acceptable fashion. Abuse can lead to expenses, which will be charged to all floor, or building, residents (see next paragraph).

Damages
Damage beyond normal wear and tear to rooms, furnishings, or other University property will be charged to individual students and may include additional fines for extra cleaning and/or vandalism. All common area damages not charged to individual(s) will be assessed to individual floors, suites, or to the entire residence hall or house. Please consult the Grad/Theo RD on how to avoid damage assessments. As noted above, students who fail to move out properly waive their right to appeal damage charges.

Door Propping
Propping doors is prohibited. If a door is found propped, and warning notices have been sent and no particular student has been identified, the community will be fined.

Extension Cords
Extension cords (other than surge protectors) are not permitted in University-owned housing.

Exterminator
An exterminator sprays each campus apartment on a regular basis. Students must allow the exterminator to spray unless they have a valid medical reason for an exemption (a physician’s letter will be required for verification). If you require an exterminator, please contact the Service Response Center in the Facilities Office, x3510.

Fines
Fines can be levied for the following reasons:
- Tampering with fire-safety equipment—$100-$500
- Failure to vacate room or apartment during fire drill—$50
- Propping outside doors—$100 first offense; second offense, removal from housing

Fire Safety
In decorating your living space, be sure posters, draperies, and other flammable items are not located over or near light fixtures/lamps (particularly halogen lamps!), or suspended to block the smoke alarm or door, or too close to the stove. Only UL-approved halogen lamps with a cover are permitted.

Fire-safety equipment is intended for the protection of all residents and is not to be tampered with. Misuse of this equipment (including, but not limited to, fire-alarms, pull boxes, smoke-detector systems, alarm bells and sirens, fire extinguishers, emergency and electrical panels, etc.) is a serious violation.

Students are required by state law to evacuate residence units when a fire alarm is activated. In addition, bicycles or other personal belongings may not be placed in stairwells or other public areas of buildings.

Propping open exterior hall doors or interior fire doors or circumventing any other safety/security measure is also prohibited. (See also Door Propping).
Fire/Smoke Alarms
There are two different types of fire/smoke detectors in campus residences.

- One type is direct wired and, if activated, triggers a building alarm. Once a building alarm sounds all residents must immediately evacuate the building.
- The second type, battery-operated alarms, “beep” in individual apartments. If yours is activated (perhaps due to a cooking accident) you can quickly de-activate the alarm by opening a window and airing out the apartment. If the alarm continuously beeps for no apparent reason, it probably needs a new battery.

Guests/Visitors
Students are welcome to invite off-campus friends to visit and stay overnight on campus. However, they must abide by the following regulations, which are intended to protect the quality of life for all resident students and to clarify the rights of individuals to their own, private living space.

- University housing is provided only for those students who have been assigned a unit and have signed a housing agreement with the Housing Office. Non-Drew persons have no right of entry into campus housing, but are allowed entry by a sponsoring student.
- Students who wish to house a guest must have the approval of their roommates and/or housemates. There is a limit of two guests/sponsor at a time.
- Guests must be escorted by their hosts at all times.
- Guests may stay up to 72 hours (3 days) within a two-week interval. In unusual circumstances, a longer stay may be discussed with the RD. If it is determined that a guest’s stay is for the purpose of taking up residence, the student host may be charged restitution and face student-conduct charges, while the guest may be restricted from further entry into campus housing or grounds.
- Student hosts are responsible for informing their guests of University policies and their guests are responsible for abiding by the policies.
- Students will be held accountable for the conduct of their guests and for any violations (including parking) incurred by them.
- Guests with cars are required to stop in at Pepin/Public Safety for a temporary parking permit.
- Guests may not sleep overnight in a residence-hall lounge.
- Students are asked to report suspicious or uninvited visitors to the Public Safety Department, x3379.

Visits by fellow students
Consideration must be given to the needs and rights of roommates/housemates. Residence Life staff reserve the right to intervene if a roommate’s/housemate’s rights are not being observed.

Halogen Lamps
Halogen lamps must be UL-approved and must have metal covers. All others are considered fire hazards and are not permitted in University housing.

Heaters
No electric, kerosene, or space heaters of any type are allowed in University housing.

Heating Information
The campus is composed of a variety of buildings of differing age and architecture, hence different heating systems. There is some general knowledge which can be useful, however, in understanding how most buildings are supplied with heat.

Many of the larger buildings are equipped with outside air sensors that serve a variety of functions. Most importantly, these devices signal the appropriate heating unit to supply heat when the outside air drops below 55 degrees F. These sensors also conserve energy when the outside air temperature exceeds 55 degrees F.

During the day, the target temperature for most buildings (whether academic, residential, or auxiliary) is 68 to 70 degrees F. At night, the heat in most residential buildings is normally between 62 and 65 degrees F.

Heating Problems
It is during seasonal change that fluctuating temperatures often create stress on thermostats, heating systems, and outside air sensors—not to mention residents! As the season progresses and temperatures settle in, heating buildings becomes more routine. To help deal with heating problems, the following procedures have been established:

- If you are experiencing a problem, contact Facilities (x3510) who will take a temperature reading with a thermometer. If the reading is below 68 degrees F, a representative from Facilities will attempt to fix the problem. After 5 p.m., all calls should be directed to Public Safety, x3379. In order to receive help, you must identify your exact location. Please include information about the general status of the building and indicate whether only one room is cold or if a whole floor or building is affected.
- Due to the variety of older buildings on campus, variations in temperature from room to room and floor to floor will occur. While the goal is to create a comfortable environment for all, it is not always possible to achieve the heating set points in all rooms and in all locations at all times.
Incident Reports
A form may be obtained from the Residence Life Web site (depts.drew.edu/reslife/incident.htm) or from the Office of Residence Life. Forms may be filled out by faculty, staff, or students to report accidents, thefts, or policy violations. They will be circulated to the appropriate University offices and, in the case of a policy violation, may lead to the onset of the student conduct process.

Keys
Keys are issued by Residence Life staff upon check-in. Extra keys may be purchased at a cost of $5 per key. They must not be duplicated or loaned to anyone else. If you lose a key, immediately contact the RD. Children over ten may be issued keys in accordance with the Supervision of Children Policy (see below). Keys must be returned when residents move out of rooms. There is a charge of $55 to change a door lock and have new keys made.

Laundry
Residence areas are equipped with both washers and dryers. Washers and dryers cost $.75 (three quarters) a load. Refunds for lost money due to a malfunctioning washer and/or dryer are reimbursed through the vendor. Contact the Business Office at x3114 regarding refunds. Personal washers and dryers are prohibited in apartments. Personal items should not be left in the laundry rooms.

Mailboxes
The University Center (UC), located across from S.W. Bowne, is where students receive both campus and US mail. All resident students are assigned campus mail boxes and combinations. Books of stamps are available from The Bookstore. Domestic and international parcels can be weighed in The Bookstore for mailing.

Microwave Ovens
Microwave units are permitted in kitchen areas only.

Musical Instruments
It is important that residents acknowledge they are living in a quiet environment where the primary endeavor is study. There are communal areas with pianos (such as the UC and The Commons) and music practice rooms available on campus. Instruments may be played in rooms and apartments for short periods, not to exceed an hour, during the daytime so long as it is not disruptive to other residents.

Pets
No pets are permitted in any campus residence, with the exception of non-meat-eating fish. Pets can cause allergic reactions in neighbors or future residents, carry certain diseases, have fleas or ticks, cause infestation, create noise, and cause undue damage to apartments and furnishings. Possession of a pet will result in a fine and possible loss of housing.

Playgrounds
There is a fully equipped playground for the children of grad/theo students located between Wendel and Tipple Halls. Surrounding the play area are picnic tables.

Prohibited Appliances/Items
To protect the health and welfare of the community, the following items are prohibited:

- Firearms and objects of all kinds with the potential to cause bodily harm, including (but not limited to) guns, BB guns, knives, bows and arrows, and martial arts equipment
- Fireworks, explosives, incense, candles, and flammable liquids
- Extension cords or "outlet expanders" (with the exception of surge protectors); surge protectors are allowed, but one may not be plugged into another.
- Decorative lighting (such as holiday lights, neon signs)
- Halogen lamps without metal covers
- Illegal or non-prescribed drugs and drug paraphernalia
- Kegs, beer balls, and other alcoholic beverages in bulk quantities. Empty containers, funnels, or other paraphernalia used for binging purposes will be considered illegal also and owners will be subject to fines
- Volatile liquids and substances of any kind, including (but not limited to) fuels, open cans of paint, paint thinner, and turpentine
- Motorcycles, mopeds, or motor bikes
- Any appliance exceeding 500 watts (except hair dryers used in bathroom facilities)
- Space heaters, ceiling fans, washing machines, dryers, freezers, or other high-voltage equipment
- Waterbeds, pools
- Pets, except for non-meat-eating fish
- Items attached to/hanging from fire-safety equipment
- Paper lamps

Prohibited Modifications
Residents are not allowed to make permanent modifications to their housing units. Some examples of modifications that are prohibited are:

- Built-in furniture
- Installed carpet
- Doors/partitions

Property Damage
The University is not responsible for damage to, or loss of, students’ personal property due to fire, facility failure, theft, or severe weather. Students are encouraged to obtain personal property insurance.

Quiet Hours
The majority of campus residents are University students. Some have families and small children. To ensure that students, along with their families, have a comfortable studying and living environment, each building has designated "quiet hours." All noise in the building must be kept to a minimum between the hours of 9 p.m. and 7 a.m. This includes children in the hallways, meetings held in building lounges, the playing of musical instruments, loud radios, and televisions. In short, if activity in one unit can be heard in another, at any time of day, it is probably too loud. Please respect this important community policy. Quiet hours are determined by the Office of Residence Life.
Recycling
Recycling is New Jersey State Law and Drew University policy. All residents are required to recycle paper, cardboard, glass, plastic, and metal cans. Recycling containers are provided for most campus buildings throughout campus and information is posted in every living unit. There is a sizable recycling center behind Tipple that is convenient to Wendel and Tipple residents. Please do your share to protect the campus environment.

Repairs
If your unit (or University property within it) is in need of repair, please do not attempt to make repairs yourself. Call the Service Response Center at x3510 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, or visit the online site at http://asmisis-7198/isis/User_Options.asp. To find the Web site go to http://home.drew.edu/ choose ‘Department Pages,’ ‘Facilities Operations;’ and then ‘Requests.’ Follow the directions and be sure to note your work-order request number.

In an emergency (such as a serious water leak, overflowing toilet, or absence of water or heat), if Facilities is closed and the RD is not available immediately, call Public Safety at x3379.

Routine Inspection
The University reserves the right to enter student apartments and rooms without prior notice to make necessary repairs and/or to inspect for required repairs or room conditions. Routine inspection for safety, maintenance, or alteration shall be preceded by a knock and verbal identification.

Entry may be made even if no one is present. Such entry does not include the authority to search personal belongings but, rather, provides the authority to perform necessary functions of safety, maintenance, and room inspection.

Search and Seizure
The rooms and personal possessions of students will not be searched except in extreme emergencies (such as fear for the physical safety of a resident). In those cases in which a search is deemed necessary, appropriate authorization will be obtained and official procedures followed. See the Appendix for “Regulations Regarding Search and Routine Inspection”.

Security
Halls are locked twenty-four hours a day. Other campus buildings are locked evenings between 9 and 11 p.m. and re-opened between 7 and 9 a.m. Whenever you leave your residence, please carry your key and ID. Do not prop open doors at any time. The fine for doing so is $100 for the first offense; removal from housing for the second offense.

Signs
The Director of Residence Life (and designees) will have the final say on the posting of signs inside University housing and on doors. A student who wishes to post a sign(s) is advised to obtain approval from the director prior to posting. It is the posting person’s responsibility to remove signs.

Smoking
Smoking is no longer permitted in any University housing, according to a new New Jersey State law. Ash trays will be placed in designated spots at the exterior of buildings. Smokers should be respectful of residents who reside near doorways.
Storage
Most residential units have limited space for the storage of personal property, which is available on a first-come, first-served basis. If you need storage space, check with your RD regarding availability. If space is available, you will be asked to complete a Storage Agreement Form. Once signed, the RD will provide you with a key, storage location, and unit number. All items must be clearly tagged with residents’ name and apartment number. Items unclaimed after set deadlines will be discarded. No items can be stored in hallways, attics, or common-area spaces.

The University is not responsible for lost or stolen property. For safety’s sake, no flammable poisons, chemicals, or food may be stored. Due to space limitations, furniture and appliances may not be stored in these areas.

Supervision of Children
Supervision and safety of children is a priority of the University. Children should not be left in apartments unsupervised at any time. In addition, children under nine years of age should not be left unsupervised on campus playgrounds, in campus buildings, or in housing units. If a child is found unattended, the procedure will be as follows:

- The Department of Public Safety will be notified concerning the whereabouts of the child and, if deemed necessary, will supervise the child (or have an appropriate adult supervise the child) until the parents and/or guardian are located
- The RD will be notified of the incident
- A report will be written and given to the parent/guardian
- A copy of this report will be sent to the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs who may contact the Department of Youth and Family Services (DYFS)

If you have any questions about this policy, please contact your RD.

- Babysitting: Some parents have found it helpful to form babysitting co-ops to help with child care. You may find this, or a similar arrangement, to be beneficial to you as well. In addition, the Career Center (UC 101) maintains listings of College students interested in babysitting, x3710.

Suspension from Residence Unit
The University reserves the right, for disciplinary reasons, to terminate the housing agreement of any student without refunding his/her room rent or fees.

If a student’s/family’s behavior in a living unit is unacceptable, the RD has the responsibility to deal with it (warn, place on housing probation) and, if the situation warrants, place the matter before the Director of Residence Life for a hearing and appropriate sanctions. The student has the right, within one week, to request a review of the decision by the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, provided there is new information or if the student feels there is information which was not taken into account by the director. There is no further appeal.

Telephone Service
Residents of Wendel and Tipple can arrange their service through the telecommunications office at x3333. Residents of Green Villa and Loantaka may contact Cablevision, 1-800/333-4857.

University-Owned Property
Students are responsible for University-owned property, such as refrigerators and ovens, and will be held financially responsible for damage. (This does not include basic repairs and maintenance). Students are also responsible for University furniture, if any, in their rooms.

Vandalism
When incidents of vandalism occur and no individual takes responsibility, or the act goes unreported to the RD, it unfortunately becomes the responsibility of floor or building residents to pay collectively for the damages and their accounts will be billed. In the case of graduating students, funds to repair the damage are deducted from the enrollment and housing deposits.

Violations
Violations of residential regulations can lead to disciplinary sanctions. For specifics, see the Student Conduct Policy in the Appendix.

MOVING OUT OF YOUR HOUSING UNIT
Your unit must be left in the same condition as when you first moved in, other than normal wear and tear.
To insure proper check-out:

Clean Your Unit
Your living space should be thoroughly cleaned, including vacuuming rugs, sweeping floors, and cleaning the kitchen (especially the oven) and bathroom (especially the shower stall or tub areas). If your residence is not cleaned, you will be charged for cleaning at a rate of $15 per hour/per person. If there are missing items or damage to University property (e.g., the refrigerator) due to neglect, you will be charged for both the time it takes and for the materials needed to make repairs.

Defrost and Clean the Refrigerator
Do not use sharp objects to defrost the refrigerator/freezer. This practice can cause serious damage. Please contact the RD if you are not sure of proper procedures.

Remove Tape, Nails, etc. from Walls and Doors
Students are held responsible for holes left in walls. Small holes can be filled in with spackling compound available inexpensively at local hardware stores.

Make an Appointment with the RD
A check-out appointment must be scheduled with your RD 48 hours beforehand. Checkouts scheduled less than 48 hours ahead of time will result in a late check-out fee of $25. The RD will assess your unit’s condition and you will be billed for significant structural changes or damages, if any. You must also turn in your keys at this time.

UC DESK
x3456

At the UC desk, students and visitors alike find the answers to many questions. Besides providing basic information, the UC desk is the source of game equipment such as ping-pong paddles, pool cues, and foosballs. The desk attendants are prepared to provide helpful information or assistance, including University office telephone numbers, the times and locations of many campus events, copies of bus and train schedules, Web addresses, information about local merchants, and a host of off-campus telephone numbers.

Lost and Found
If you lose something in the UC, you can often recover it at the UC desk. This is also the place to bring objects you’ve found. Lost room keys should be turned in to the Residence Life Office or Public Safety Office (Pepin), so check there as well.

COMMUTER CORNER
groups.drew.edu/commuters

Commuting students have a space to call their own! The UC houses a lounge where commuting students can relax, make on-campus calls, do some work, or chat with other students. Located near the Snack Bar, it’s a quiet, cozy nook where you can keep yourself up-to-date on goings-on at Drew. Commuters@Drew has a bulletin board where pertinent information is posted and there are day lockers where you can leave your “stuff” until you need it. (You must provide your own lock and remove it each day by the time the building closes).
THE PUB
x3426
depcts.drew.edu/pub
Dean William Rogers, Adviser, x3283
Fr. Joe Farias, representative to the Pub Advisory Board
The Pub is a traditional bar managed by a student staff, who report to the Pub Advisory Board (made up of students, faculty, and staff from all three schools). The Food Service provides operational consulting. Any member of the Drew community 21 years or older (in accordance with New Jersey State law) may join the Center Pub Association; nonmembers must pay a nominal cover charge. Popular events include Monday night football, theme nights, and happy hours. Watch for publicity over e-mail and in The Acorn.

PUBLICITY/POSTERS
All announcements (flyers, posters, banners, etc.) in the University Center must be approved by the Director of Student Activities prior to posting, and the sponsoring organization is responsible for removal within 48 hours of the conclusion of the event. Please be aware of your posting needs and submit the publicity for approval at least 24 hours before it is to be posted. Once approved, it will be hung by office staff on appropriate bulletin boards—those approved for general postings. Do not post the UC windows and doors or on organization-specific bulletin boards without the permission of those organizations (such as the GSA, TSA, SGA, UPB, C@D). Posters may be tied to trees. They may not be nailed or tacked as doing so will harm the trees. Please keep in mind the weather and remove decomposing posters as quickly as possible.

Chalk cannot be used on any buildings, walkways, staircases, etc. and may be treated as vandalism.

THE SPACE
x3468
A great gathering place for late-night food, The Space is home to many events and programs throughout the semester sponsored by many student organizations. On Thursday nights, the University Program Board (UPB) hosts events ranging from music to comedy. Be on the lookout for the entertainment line-up!

BILLING DEADLINES
Tuition and housing (if needed) fees must be paid in full no later than August 5 for the fall semester and January 5 for the spring semester. A $500 late fee is assessed to accounts whose payments are received after these dates. Failure to pay on time can also result in registration and housing holds and/or cancellations. A brochure, “Understanding Your Drew Bill,” is available in the Business Office.

ID CARD
In addition to being your official Drew ID card, it serves as your Library card and declining balance card. It can be used in The Commons, Snack Bar, the Space, Java City, Bookstore, Health Service, and in selected vending and laundry machines.
Every student is required to carry the ID card at all times. It must be presented to gain access to on-campus events and serves as collateral when checking out games such as pool and ping pong in the UC.
If your card is lost or stolen you must contact the Business Office immediately to obtain a replacement; the cost is $10. If your ID becomes damaged (i.e. demagnetized) or destroyed please bring the card, no matter its condition, to the Business Office for a replacement. Do not throw your card away. There is no charge for the replacement if you have the original card.

The Bookstore sells reading material of all kinds, fiction and nonfiction, magazines and newspapers, as well as new and used textbooks. It also stocks school and office supplies, soda and snacks, and a variety of health and beauty aids. Come in and see the many Drew specialty items and the great collection of Drew clothing. Books of stamps, pre-paid phone cards, helium balloons, greeting cards, and a film-processing service are also available. Major credit cards are accepted.
Textbooks can also be ordered over the Internet. The address is www.drew.bkstr.com.
INSURANCE

Accident and Sickness Insurance: The State of NJ requires that all full-time students carry health insurance and they are, therefore, billed for Drew’s accident and sickness insurance, which provides basic coverage (see Health Services for details). Students have the option of waiving out of this insurance so long as they carry comparable health insurance and do so prior to August 5. Waiver instructions are included in the billing packets sent to all students for the fall semester.

Property Insurance
The University does not insure students for property damage or loss and is therefore not responsible for lost, stolen, or damaged personal items (including University-issued computers). Students are advised to obtain their own personal policy.

Tuition Refund Insurance
This covers medical leaves-of-absence and withdrawals only and entitles students to a pro-rated refund of tuition and housing fees (if any) if they must leave for medical reasons. Students are billed for this insurance automatically and have the option of waiving it by the billing due date. Students who waive this insurance will receive no refund from the University. (Students with federal financial aid should check with the Business Office and the Financial Assistance Office to see if they’re entitled to partial refunds).

REFUNDS

During the first three weeks of a semester
In general, students who take a leave of absence or withdraw for any reason during the first three weeks of the semester are entitled to a partial refund. The refund is based on the official date of withdrawal on the form on file in the Office of the Registrar (blank forms are available from the Registrar’s Office). Since federal regulations and individual circumstances vary widely, please contact the Business Office and/or Financial Assistance Office to determine the amount of your refund.

First week—90% refund of charges
Second week—70% refund of charges
Third week—50% refund of charges
Fourth week—0% (NO refund of charges)

After the third week of a semester
Only those students with a documented medical condition who have not waived the tuition refund insurance are entitled to a refund of tuition and fees. See ‘Insurance’ above.

Enrollment and security deposits
Students who withdraw voluntarily from the University are entitled to a refund of these deposits (the security deposit for grad/theo students is $400; the enrollment deposit varies according to the program) if they notify the Associate Dean of the Caspersen School/Theological School by August 1 (for the fall semester) or December 1 (for the spring semester).

No refund on any bill is due a student who is required to withdraw, to vacate University housing, or who leaves without first securing the consent of the Dean of the Caspersen School or the Associate Academic Dean of the Theological School.

RETURNED CHECKS
The Business Office charges a $50 service fee for checks returned for lack of funds.

COMPUTING AND NETWORK SERVICES

THE CAMPUS NETWORK
Mike Richichi, Director, Computing and Network Services
Brothers College 4, x3840

Wendy Sue Williams, Training Coordinator
Instructional Technology Services, Brothers College 6
x3926

All enrolled students (along with faculty and staff) have accounts on the campus network, and there is access to the network from all on-campus residence halls and from academic and administrative buildings throughout the campus. There is wireless access to the network from the Library, University Center, The Commons, and most academic locations. Each individual using the network has private space on the network for files, which may be shared with designated others and Web pages.

The campus network provides access to the Internet, electronic mail, the Library catalog, Library resources in electronic form, licensed academic software, updated virus protection, updated Windows security and anti-spam software, and a great deal of campus information. The network also provides secure access to special services including Blackboard and ATTIC course management software, Campus Web (which is used for online registration and lookup of transcript and account information) and Web interfaces to electronic mail and network files.

Drew-issued computers are specially configured to be well integrated with the campus network, allowing students to achieve the full benefit of the services offered. It is important that you log into the network frequently (at least once a day) in order to check for important information from faculty and/or administrators, and to receive the latest virus protection software and Windows updates to protect your computer.
Non-Drew computers
If you have a computer that was not issued by Drew, you will still have an account on the campus network and may receive those network services that are available through a Web browser. Those services include Internet access, Library resources, secure access services described above, and access through a Web interface to shared files on the campus network. Computers other than those issued by Drew may not be configured for the highest level of integration with the campus network, so services not available through a Web browser may not be available to them. In particular, it is the responsibility of students, when using a computer not issued by Drew, to maintain up-to-date virus protection and up-to-date security patches for their operating system in order to protect their computers and the community in general.

Check this Web site for more information on the Computer Initiative and exceptions for non-Drew computers.

The CNS Helpdesk provides help and support for Drew-issued hardware and standard Drew software (issued with the Drew computer package). It is staffed by students who are supervised by full-time staff. Computers needing repair should be brought here. You may also use the URL, support.drew.edu, to ask questions or to request support related to Drew-issued computers, standard software, or network services. For more information, see the CNS Web page located at depts.drew.edu/cns.

Campus-wide e-mail messages
Students may send campus-wide e-mail messages (using University-maintained distribution lists) to publicize upcoming events. Using the Internet Explorer start page, click on “Forms” and “Send campus wide e-mail.”

- Select the group(s) to which you would like to send your message.
- Type the message and press “S” for send (you are, in fact, sending the message only to the system manager, not the community at large).
- A copy of your message will be sent automatically to you and to the Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs for approval.
- You will be contacted immediately if there is a problem with approval (if, for example, the event is scheduled for a non-handicap-accessible space.) Otherwise, if received before 4 p.m., the message will likely be sent out the following day.

- Please keep messages brief and try not to use identical wording for both e-mail and voicemail.

Note: The system can send only a limited number of campus-wide messages each day. Please confine your use of campus-wide e-mails to one message per event.

Because of the volume of campus-wide e-mail, planners of events should consider carefully whether campus-wide e-mail is an effective way of publicizing a particular event.

COMPUTERS FOR COMMUTING STUDENTS

- Computer Center
  Computers are available in the Computer Center in the lower level of Brothers College.

- University Library
  Network-connected computers are located on every floor of the Library. In addition, there are network jacks for students to plug in their laptops and to log into their accounts using their own passwords.

- The Cyber Café in Seminary Hall contains network jacks.

- S.W. Bowne, The UC Snack Bar, and The Simon Forum all contain network jacks.

- The GSA computer in Thompson Commons/S. W. Bowne can be used to check e-mail.

Computer Ownership
While it is not a requirement, it is strongly recommended that all graduate students have a computer. Theo students in the M.Div. program are required to purchase the Drew computer package unless they have a notebook computer that is approved by the dean’s office. Any student who wishes to purchase the Drew package is welcome to do so for a one-time fee. Students who use their own compatible system are not entitled to repairs or software support on campus.

Loss/Theft
If you have reason to believe your computer (or any of its components) is lost or stolen, report it to Public Safety (x3379). Be aware that students are not covered by University property insurance; they should consider purchasing their own policy.

Misuse of Computing Facilities
Computing resources are provided for the use of faculty, students, and staff for academic purposes. The privilege of use by a student is not transferable to another student, to an outside individual, or to an outside organization. Misuse is considered a serious student conduct offense and carries sanctions for anyone found in violation of the University’s policy. Please see the Appendix for the “Academic Technology Policy.”

FACILITIES OPERATIONS
dep.ts.drew.edu/admnfrm
Pepin Service Center
Service Response Center, x3510

The Facilities Operations Department is responsible for maintaining the campus buildings and grounds including access control, heating and cooling, plumbing, recycling, and a plethora of other services listed on the department Web site.
SUBMITTING WORK REQUESTS
Individuals should report maintenance issues via the department’s Web site or by calling the service Response Center between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday–Friday.
If an emergency occurs while the Service Response Center is closed, please call the Department of Public Safety at x3379.

RECYCLING
Recycling starts with you! Drew recycles paper, cardboard, bottles, cans, and plastics. It is each student’s responsibility to separate recyclables from trash and to place recyclables in the proper container. Facilities will take it from there!
Each building will be provided with two types of recycling containers—one for paper/cardboard and one for metal cans/bottles/plastic.
Please call the Service Response Center with any maintenance-related questions.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE, OFFICE OF
Tilghman House/2nd Floor, x3112
Kandice Joyce, Counselor for grad/theo students, x3112
The services and resources of the Office of Financial Assistance are available to all students. Financial assistance awards are based on a student’s academic and other accomplishments, as well as financial need. About 80% of graduate students receive some form of financial assistance, available in the form of scholarships, grants, fellowships, loans, and work/study employment. Students are encouraged to contact this office to utilize the information and financial counseling services available.

Procedure for Applying
Returning students must complete a renewal of the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) and the University’s supplemental form by April 1.

All forms can be obtained in the Office of Financial Assistance, as well as from links on the Drew University Financial Assistance Web site.

Please keep in mind the following
• Students must be in good standing and maintain satisfactory academic progress according to University policy.
• Any change in status (such as moving from full- to part-time status) may change your award package.
• Withdrawals from Drew must be made officially through a Dean of the Caspersen School/Theological School.

EMPLOYMENT
Zarinah Smith, Student Employment Coordinator, x3717
This office will assist you in finding a job on campus. Students may be hired for both regular employment jobs and also for federal work-study jobs if they are eligible. Eligibility to participate in the Federal Work-Study Program is determined through the submission of a Financial Aid Application.
In addition to jobs on campus, the Federal Community Service Program allows a limited number of work-study-eligible students to participate in off-campus community service jobs. These jobs and other off-campus jobs are coordinated through the Career Center, UC 101, x3710.

HOUSING, CONFERENCES & HOSPITALITY (HCH)
Pat Naylor, Director, Learning Center, x3103 HOUSING OFFICE
Graduate/Theological Student Housing Coordinator
x3037
The Housing Office makes assignments, issues housing agreements, and maintains requests for upgrades/changes. The Housing and Residence Life sections of this handbook, plus your housing agreement, explain policies and procedures. With regard to circumstances not covered in these documents, please contact the Housing Coordinator. The Housing Office also works with both the Facilities Office and the Office of Residence Life on maintenance issues in University housing. See "Repairs" on page 51.

HOUSING POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

Eligibility

Housing is not guaranteed and is available only to registered, full-time, matriculated students and their families as available.

All residents agree to abide by the rules and regulations of the University, as described in this handbook and the housing agreement. Failure to comply with these rules and University policies are grounds for termination of the housing agreement.

Housing Deposit

A $250 housing deposit is required for all students who apply for housing. When a student leaves University housing at the end of the contract period, the deposit will be returned, less any outstanding charges (for example, for fines or damages). If a student moves from University housing before the end of the contract period, the housing deposit will be forfeited.

Priority of Assignments

Students are assigned to housing with the following priorities in mind:

- New students awarded scholarships, by category
- New students
- Current students seeking larger/smaller units due to change in family size or individual situation, then by program
- Date of application

All housing assignments are based on the availability of appropriately sized units for applicants.

Residency Eligibility

Students are permitted a maximum number of years in a degree program and, hence, housing. Current policies are:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Program</th>
<th>Eligibility</th>
<th>Priority</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ph.D.</td>
<td>5 years maximum</td>
<td>#1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M.Div.</td>
<td>4 years maximum</td>
<td>#1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M.A.</td>
<td>2 years maximum</td>
<td>#2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S.T.M.</td>
<td>2 years maximum</td>
<td>#2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M.T.S.</td>
<td>2 years maximum</td>
<td>#3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If a student completes one program and begins a new one, he/she must re-apply for housing (if he/she plans to remain in University housing). Continuation of housing is not guaranteed.

HOUSING AGREEMENT RELEASE

The University Housing Agreement is a signed, binding agreement between a student and the University for a specified time period. No one should sign a housing agreement unless she/he is certain to have the financial resources to meet the full term.

A student who desires release from a housing agreement must have "due cause". Due cause typically involves a documented change in circumstances that occurred after a student signed an agreement (for example, a health problem or unforeseen financial hardship). To request release from a housing agreement, a student must complete a release form (available in the Housing Office) and submit it with documentation 30 days before the expected move-out date. No one should sign a subsequent rent/lease agreement until a release has been granted in writing from the University. A student granted a release from his/her agreement forfeits the housing deposit and is subject to a penalty equivalent to two months of housing.

HOUSING STYLES/SINGLE STUDENTS

- Green Villa Suites are single and double bedrooms located in a shared living environment. All students have access to kitchen, bathroom, dining, and living areas. Students are responsible for cleaning their own units.
- Loantaka Houses contain single bedrooms situated in a shared living environment. Students have access to kitchen, bathroom, dining, and living areas and are responsible for cleaning same.

Furniture

Bedrooms are furnished with a single bed (35' x 80' mattress), dresser, desk, lighted carrel, and desk chair for each student. Common areas are furnished with a dining table and chairs and lounge furniture.

Kitchen

Each suite or house has a communal kitchen. Students supply their own pots, pans, utensils, dish soap, etc. Also, students are responsible for cleaning dishes, stove, and counter tops after each meal.

Telephone/Television

Students who live in Green Villa Suites or Loantaka Houses must make individual arrangements for telephone service, Internet access, and cable. Telephone jacks for each student are in the bedrooms. For details on telephone and television service, see pages 63 and 64.
HOUSING STYLES/FAMILIES

Family-style housing is available for graduate and theological students and their spouses, domestic partners, and dependent children under the age of 18; occasionally, single students occupy family-housing units. Qualifications for family housing are:

- Housing is limited to the student and his/her immediate family (spouse, partner, and dependent children under the age of 18)
- In cases of separation or divorce, housing will continue to be offered to the student but not to the spouse or domestic partner. Furthermore, as a student’s family size changes, he/she may no longer be eligible for his/her current unit and may be re-assigned to an appropriately sized unit
- No more than two children may share a bedroom in a two- or three-bedroom apartment
- A child who is 10 years old by July 1 of a new academic year may share a bedroom with only one other child of the same sex

Tipple Hall consists of one-, two-, and three-bedroom units

Wendel Hall contains small efficiency and one- and two-bedroom units.

Small efficiency units, when designated for family housing, are reserved for couples and single students as available. No children are permitted. Units located in Wendel are approximately 12’ x 14’. The maximum capacity for a small efficiency unit is a family of two people.

One-bedroom units, when designated for family housing, are reserved for couples, couples with one child under the age of ten, a single parent with two children of the same sex or two children of the opposite sex if both are under the age of ten, and single students as available.

The maximum capacity for a one-bedroom unit is a family of three people. In Wendel and Tipple one-bedroom units, the living, dining, and kitchen areas combined are approximately 12’ x 16’; the bedroom is approximately 10’ x 12’.

Two-bedroom units, when designated for family housing, are limited to couples and single parents with at least one child over the age of ten, single parents and couples with two children of the same sex or two children of the opposite sex under the age of ten. The maximum capacity for a two-bedroom unit is a family of four people. The Wendel and Tipple two-bedroom unit is similar in size and layout to the one-bedroom but has an additional bedroom.

Three-bedroom units, when designated for family housing, are limited to couples and single parents with at least two children of the opposite sex, one of whom is ten or more, or three children. The maximum capacity for a three-bedroom unit is a family of six people. Three-bedroom units are located in Tipple.

Unit Changes

Students in single-student housing may request a room change to a vacant room by filling out a wait list form. Students in family-style housing may not request a unit change except when their family size has changed and they no longer qualify for their current unit. Wait list forms are available in the Housing Office. Students who qualify for a larger unit based on family size and who want an upgrade should complete the wait list form; however, due to the limited number of family housing units, an upgrade is not guaranteed.

Off-Campus Housing

The Housing Office maintains a list of off-campus properties for rent as well as copies of local newspapers.

Repairs

Report such problems as a broken window or malfunctioning refrigerator to the Service Response Center in the Facilities Office in Pepin Service Center, x3510, or file a request electronically by going to the department’s Web site www.depts.drew.edu/admfrm.

SCHEDULING OFFICE

Emergencies, x4444

The Department of Public Safety provides the Drew community and its students with a safe environment in which to live, study, and pursue educational goals. Public Safety is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and responds to all emergency calls. Responsibilities include crime prevention and investigation, fire safety, parking, and enforcement of other campus regulations. The department is recognized throughout the state for its highly trained staff of professional men and women and it provides a level of service usually associated with larger campus communities. For complete information about the Department of Public Safety and the services it
FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

1. If I encounter an emergency situation on campus, should I first call the Madison Police?
   NO. Call the Public Safety emergency extension, x4444. The Public Safety dispatcher will send an officer immediately. He/she has a direct line to the Madison police and fire departments if further assistance is needed.

2. I know some people involved in an incident that should be reported, but I’m concerned about retaliation. What should I do?
   Public Safety has a voice mailbox, x5656, dedicated to crime tips. Students may leave confidential messages regarding an incident without identifying themselves.

3. I will be having a guest for the weekend. What should I do?
   When your guest arrives, go with him/her to Public Safety and purchase a guest pass for $2 a night. He/she must provide his/her vehicle registration and insurance cards. The pass will permit him/her to park in the Tilghman lot.

4. Does it matter how many tickets I get so long as I pay them?
   YES, it matters. Students who receive more than three summonses in less than one academic year may lose their parking privileges for the remainder of the year.

5. It’s nighttime and the only available parking spaces are in the Tilghman lot, far away from my apartment, what can I do to feel safe?
   Park your car in the Tilghman lot and then go to either the gatehouse or the Department of Public Safety in Pepin. A Public Safety officer will escort you back to your residence.

6. I want to drive a car on University business. What rules do I have to follow?
   To be properly insured and to follow University regulations, you must receive prior approval from Public Safety through a driver’s license check if you plan to drive your own personal vehicle. This check usually takes several days, so plan accordingly. There is no charge and you must have your license checked once each academic year.
   In order to drive a rented vehicle (such as the seven-passenger VRC van, but excluding 15-passenger vans) you must be over the age of 21, have your license checked, and also have completed a certified Defensive Driving course within the past five years. (Courses are offered on campus throughout the year).

7. I received a parking ticket but I want to appeal it. What should I do?
   You may appeal your citation within seven days of issuance through the parking appeals committee.

PARKING APPEALS

Sycamore Cottage, x3986

If you think you have received a parking ticket unjustly, you may appeal the violation. Your appeal must be made in writing within seven days of receiving the ticket and should be submitted to the Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs in Sycamore Cottage, first floor, rear office. Public Safety will provide you with the information and forms necessary to appeal your ticket. Appeals are heard by the parking appeals committee of the Student Conduct Board, which is made up of fellow students, members of the Department of Public Safety, and the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs. The committee meets regularly throughout the school year and all decisions are final and binding.

Please make yourself familiar with all University parking regulations. For a complete list and full description of regulations governing vehicles on campus, refer to the Public Safety Web site or obtain a copy of the Motor Vehicle Regulations Handbook available at the Department of Public Safety.

PARKING/VEHICLE REGULATIONS
depts.drew.edu/safety/mv

For a complete list and full description of regulations governing vehicles on campus, refer to the Public Safety Web site or the Motor Vehicle Regulations Handbook, available at the Department of Public Safety in Pepin building. All students are expected to understand these rules and regulations. They are not intended to hassle! They are designed to promote the safe flow of traffic and to provide as much on-campus parking as possible. The following are a few guidelines:

1. Acceptance of a parking permit constitutes agreement on the part of the person to whom the permit is issued to obey all regulations or incur the penalties imposed.

2. Only grad/theo students, resident seniors and juniors, and commuters are allowed to purchase annual parking permits. Resident freshmen and sophomores are not eligible for annual parking privileges.

3. You may not register a vehicle for someone other than yourself. Students allowed to obtain a permit may do so only for their own vehicles, and the car must belong to that student or to the person paying the student’s University bill.

4. All students may obtain weekend temporary permits (Friday night at 5 p.m. until Sunday at 5 p.m.) for themselves or for their guests. They must register and pay at the gatehouse or at Public Safety. This temporary pass will allow parking privileges only in the designated area, normally the Tilghman lot. University hosts are responsible for the motor vehicle violations of their guests.

5. Permission to drive or park a vehicle on campus is a privilege and not a right to which one is entitled by reason of enrollment in the University. The granting of a parking permit does not insure any permit holder a parking place. Insufficient parking places in any one lot are no excuse for illegal parking!

6. Violations may be appealed within seven days of issuance through the Parking Appeals Board. Obtain forms and information at Public Safety.

7. The University assumes no responsibility for a motor vehicle or its contents in regards to fire, theft, or other damage.

8. Any unregistered or illegally parked vehicle is subject to being towed at the violator’s expense.

9. Students who receive more than three (3) summonses in less than one academic year may lose their parking privileges for the entire calendar year—and additional fines may be issued. (Summonses that are appealed and granted will not be included in this count). Students may also be referred to the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs for additional disciplinary action.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES AND FEES

When registering a vehicle please bring the following to Public Safety: vehicle, driver’s license and registration, insurance card, Drew ID, and cash or a check (no charge cards).

- The cost for an annual decal, valid from August to August, is $100.
- Grad/theo students only are allowed to register a second vehicle. The cost is $100.
- Guest and weekend temporary permits cost $2 a night.

ESTABLISHING SERVICE
(Wendel and Tipple residents)
You provide the telephone and Telecom. provides phone service, establishes your personal voice mailbox, provides an authorization code so you can make off-campus calls, and creates your own Drew network account (which includes access to the Internet, the Campus Web, and email). If you have any questions or problems regarding phone service or charges, consult your Drew University Technology System Handbook or call Telecom. for assistance.

ESTABLISHING SERVICE
(Green Villa and the Loantaka Houses residents)
Residents must make individual arrangements to establish telephone service, Internet access, and cable.

For students who choose to arrange phone service with Verizon, here are the procedures to follow:

- To call from within New Jersey: 1-800/427-9977
- From outside the state: 1-800/755-1068.

Ask for a “connection,” not an installation. A telephone jack for each resident is already installed in your room. Do not accept “wire maintenance.” Call Telecom. for any inside wiring problems.

Give Verizon your street address, not your Drew mailing address. For the Loantaka Houses, it’s 6, 10, 20, or 24 Loantaka Way, Madison, NJ 07940; for Green Villa it’s 39 Green Village Road, Madison, NJ 07940.

Residents of the Loantaka houses may be asked for a numerical code for their room. Below is a conversion chart.

HARASSING PHONE CALLS
If you receive a harassing or threatening call, you should report it immediately to Public Safety (x3379) or to the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs (x3390). At your request, Public Safety will investigate the call(s). When reporting a threatening call, please provide the following information, if possible:

- The time and date the call was received. Note: If the call came to your voice mailbox, do not archive or delete it! Instead, skip the message by pressing the # key
- Note if the call came from on campus (indicated by a single ring) or off campus (indicated by a double ring)
- Make note of anything distinct about the voice (i.e. male/female, accent, phrases, etc.)

OFF-CAMPUS CALLS
Each on-campus resident is provided with a personal authorization code (authcode). It is not necessary or advisable to tell anyone what it is. Do not write it down where it can be easily seen. You will be billed for calls placed using your authcode. Do not use anyone else’s authcode. Disciplinary action and/or fines will apply. (See "Academic Technology Policy" in the Appendix.)

VOICE MESSAGING
The Drew voicemail system answers telephone calls automatically, allows you to send messages to others, forward a copy of a message to someone else, or to send a message to several people at once.

Campus-Wide Messages
Students are welcome to send voice messages to the entire campus (or large segments of campus) using University-maintained distribution lists (such as "all students," "faculty," "staff") to publicize an upcoming event. Instructions are on the Internet Explorer Start Page. Click on "Forms" and "Voice Message Request." Or, you can

- Fill out a voice message form available on the Telecom. Web page. A copy will be sent automatically for approval to the Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs. Be sure to specify "when" and "to whom" the message should be sent.
- Following approval, record your message and send it to voicemail box 9999.
- Give Telecom. advance notice since a maximum of four messages is sent out each day. Plan ahead to get your preferred time slot. Seven-day notice is preferable, but two to three days is often workable.
- Events to which the entire campus (or virtually the entire campus) is invited must be held in handicap-accessible locations. Contact HCH (x3103) if you are uncertain about which spaces conform to ADA accessibility standards.

TELEVISION
Telecommunications and the Media Resource Center (MRC) provide cable TV service. The MRC is responsible for programming and Telecom. ensures the signal reaches your room. At this time, Drew offers more than 25 stations, including many area and satellite channels as well as a Drew “local-origination” channel and two Drew-controlled educational channels. Apartments in Wendel and Tipple are wired for cable TV access and students can provide their own TV. Residents of the Loantaka Houses or Green Villa should contact Cablevision, 1-800/333-4857.

TRANSPORTATION

If you don’t have a car, or are sensible enough to realize that driving into “the city” is no fun, take heart—there are a number of ways to get off campus!

Bus: There are two bus lines that stop right in front of the Drew front gate. Schedules are available at the UC Desk.

- New Jersey Transit provides local bus service to Morristown, Chatham, Short Hills, and the Livingston Mall. 800-772-2222
- The Lakeland Bus Line offers direct service to the Port Authority in New York. One-way tickets to New York City can be purchased on the bus. Return tickets and round-trip tickets must be purchased at the Port Authority 973/366-0600

Carpooling: Carpool offers are often posted on the bulletin boards in the University Center and on some of the discussion groups on the Campus Web.

Train

- New Jersey Transit trains run frequently from the Madison station and offer a quick way into the city via either the Mid-Town Direct (which takes passengers to Penn Station, New York City) or to lower Manhattan (via Hoboken where you catch the PATH, the Port Authority Trans-Hudson subway, also known as “the tube.”) For a scenic route, try taking the ferry across the river some afternoon. Schedules are available at the UC Desk  800/772-2222
- Amtrak runs from Penn Station, Newark to various points on the East Coast, including Penn Station in New York City. This is the train line which offers Metroliner Service (as well as unreserved train service) between New Jersey and Boston or New Jersey and Washington DC. 800/872-7245

1. DREW UNIVERSITY
HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

STATEMENT AGAINST DISCRIMINATION
Discrimination in education or employment on the basis of age, ethnicity, gender, national origin, physical disability, race, religion, or sexual orientation is prohibited.

STATEMENT AGAINST SEXUAL HARASSMENT
Sexual discrimination in the form of sexual harassment is defined as the use of one’s authority or power to coerce another person into unwanted sexual relations or to punish another person for that individual’s refusal, or the creation of an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment for living, working, or learning by a member of the University community through repetitive verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

STATEMENT AGAINST VERBAL HARASSMENT AND HOSTILE PHYSICAL CONDUCT.
Each member of the University community is expressly prohibited from severe or pervasive verbal or physical conduct that creates for other members of the community an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment for living, working, or learning.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO
A student who believes he or she has been sexually harassed or believes himself or herself discriminated against by the University itself or believes that the University or some office, program, procedures, or faculty thereof is not in compliance with the University’s Human Rights Policy or applicable state or federal laws may lodge a complaint with one or more of the following University officials.

Dr. Edye Lawler, Interim Dean of the Graduate School
elawler@drew.edu 973/408-3285

Dr. Dawn L. Williams, Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, Sycamore Cottage 1st floor

Dr. Wendy Kolmar, Co-Chair, Sexual Harassment Committee, Brothers College 104A, x3944
Dr. Virginia Samuel, Co-Chair, Sexual Harassment Committee, Seminary Hall 102, x3418
All sexual harassment complaints will be dealt with following the procedures outlined in the University’s Sexual Harassment Policy, 7.

2. AFFIRMATIVE ACTION
depts.drew.edu/affirmativeaction

Prof. George-Harold Jennings, UAAO
Sycamore Cottage, x3392
The University supports the view that there is strength in diversity and toward this end it has developed an affirmative action policy that promotes and celebrates multiculturalism. If you feel you (or someone you know) have been subjected to acts of discrimination based on gender, race, ethnicity, age, religion, national origin, disability, or sexual orientation—or if you become aware of situations in which the University’s support of multiculturalism and affirmative action is violated—contact the University Affirmative Action Officer (UAAO) or the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs.

3. COMMUTING STUDENTS
groups.drew.edu/commuters
Commuters are entitled to all the privileges of resident students (except room and board) and are subject to the same restrictions. Therefore, commuters should read this handbook carefully and, if questions arise, refer to the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs for further clarification.

Commuters are welcome to stay overnight with friends in apartments or residence halls, especially if they are planning to stay late on campus. They may apply for voicemail boxes (contact Telecommunications at x3333) from which they can access messages sent by friends and administrators. There is a “Commuter Corner” in the University Center and an active commuters club called Commuters@Drew.
4. DISABLED ACCESS
Peggi Howard, 504 Compliance Officer, Mead Hall, x3100
Drew strives to accommodate the needs of individuals whose disabilities range from mild to severely limiting. As is Drew’s intent in dealing with all students, disabled students are accommodated with personal attention and the University tries to employ its resources to ensure that each disabled student has equal access to a Drew education. Several staff members have an overview of provisions at Drew for disabled students. Students seeking information on accessibility may also contact the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, x3390.

5. EMERGENCY PROCEDURES
In case of a fire, medical, or police emergency, use any Drew network phone and dial x4444 (973/408-4444 from non-network phones) to reach the Department of Public Safety. Describe the location and nature of the emergency to the dispatcher, who will summon appropriate help immediately. The dispatcher on duty has direct contact to the dispatcher, who will summon appropriate help immediately. The dispatcher on duty has direct contact with emergency officials. Dispatchers report all emergency calls to the Director of Public Safety even if assistance is ultimately provided from outside the University.

6. STATEMENT OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF STUDENTS
PREAMBLE
Academic institutions exist for the transmission of knowledge, the pursuit of truth, the development of students, and the general well being of society. At Drew, we believe that free inquiry and free expression are indispensable to the attainment of these goals. As members of the academic community, students are encouraged to develop the capacity for critical judgment and to engage in sustained and independent search for truth.

Freedom to teach and freedom to learn are axioms of academic freedom. As the freedom to learn is dependent upon appropriate opportunities and conditions (in the classroom, on the campus, and in the larger community) it is our goal to provide such an environment. However, the responsibility to secure and to respect general conditions conducive to the freedom to learn is shared by all members of the academic community.

The statements of policy set forth here are intended as a framework within which this mutual responsibility may be exercised with a minimum of misunderstanding and confusion.

I. ACCESS TO UNIVERSITY FACILITIES
A. The facilities of Drew University shall be open to all of its duly matriculated students and members of students’ immediate family residing on campus. The invited guests of matriculated students shall be welcomed on campus subject to specific regulations governing the use of its several buildings and facilities, and provided that the guest respects the University’s standards of individual responsibility and conduct at all times. Invited guests must be accompanied by a matriculated-student host at all times.

B. Students of the University currently have free access to the book stacks of the general collection in the Rose Memorial Library. Continuance of such freedom of access is contingent upon student acceptance of responsibility for the collection and respect for the procedures established for its proper use.

C. Regulations regarding the use of Drew University’s property and facilities for solicitation, commercial sales, fund raising, distribution of literature, and the like by other than duly matriculated students, faculty, and staff are available in the Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs and in this Appendix. Any person or organization violating such regulations shall be considered a trespasser by the University.

(Please see policy regarding use of Drew University facilities and buildings (Policy 12).

II. ACADEMIC PURSUIT
All members of the academic community shall encourage free discussion, inquiry, and expression in all phases of academic life. Student performances shall be evaluated solely on an academic basis, not on opinions or conduct in matters unrelated to academic standards.

A. Protection of Freedom of Expression
Students shall be free to take reasoned exception to the data or views offered in any course of study and to reserve judgment about matters of opinion.

B. Protection Against Improper Academic Evaluation: Students shall have protection through orderly procedures established by each faculty against prejudiced or capricious academic evaluation. At the same time, students are responsible for maintaining standards of academic performance established for each course in which they are enrolled.

III. PRIVACY OF STUDENT RECORDS
A. Drew University respects and seeks to safeguard the confidential nature of the following materials that comprise a student’s record:

1. Such documents as have been submitted in application for admission to the University or in application for financial aid

2. The transcript of a student’s academic record at the University and at other places where the student may have studied

3. The record of a student’s disciplinary history at the University

4. Medical and psychological-counseling records compiled during the course of a student’s career at the University

B. Such confidential information will be made available only to authorized persons on campus.

1. Authorized persons on campus (with universal access to all students’ records except those specified in No. 4 above, unless the student gives permission) are defined as the President of the University and all respective academic deans, the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, and their designees.

2. Because of the nature of their responsibilities, the following persons shall be authorized to have access to the records as specified in No. 1 and No. 3 above: admissions committee, financial aid committee, registrar, and counseling personnel

3. Advisers have access to admission folders and transcripts, and faculty has access to transcripts on the direct or implied request of the student

C. Confidential information contained in a student’s records shall not be made available to persons or institutions off campus without the written permission of the student pursuant to court order or subpoena, or according to FERPA regulations.

1. In the case of a court order, the University shall with reasonable promptness attempt to notify the student concerned.

2. In cases involving the physical or mental illness of a student, the University may act without student consent in providing such medical or psychological records as may be deemed professionally necessary by the attending physician or counselor.

3. Students shall have access to all information in their files with the exception of letters of recommendation that they have requested be written on a confidential basis. Students may contact the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs at x3390 to review their files.

D. According to a record-retention schedule maintained by the University, all references to disciplinary history and other material having no direct bearing on the academic record shall be destroyed three years after a student’s graduation or separation from Drew, with the following exception: The files of students who have been involved in reportable offenses (such as assault, alcohol, drugs, etc.) will not be destroyed until three years following the final disclosure of Cleary statistics.

1. This provision is to be understood as permitting the recording of any institutional action, such as suspension and expulsion for academic or disciplinary reasons, which affects a student’s eligibility to re-register at the institution.

2. Drew University shall maintain no records of a student’s political activity or beliefs.

E. The Office of the Registrar reserves the right to issue copies of a student’s academic record to that student’s high school or previous college when such information is requested for use in evaluating the educational program.

IV. STUDENT AFFAIRS

In student affairs, certain standards must be maintained if the freedom of students is to be preserved. An individual, by virtue of his/her status as a student, is a member of a community, the very existence of which is contingent upon the responsible behavior of the individual members; namely, that their exercise of freedom takes full cognizance of the rights of others.

A. Campus Organizations: Students bring to the campus a variety of interests previously acquired, and, as members of the academic community, they often develop new interests as well. They shall be free to organize and join associations to promote these interests.

Organizations having or seeking institutional recognition shall be required to submit to the appropriate board, such as the Extra-Curricular Activities Board (ECAB), a statement of purpose, criteria for membership, rules of procedures (including those for financial accountability), and a current list of officers. When seeking institutional recognition, a membership list may be requested to establish noted support for an organization and to ensure lack of duplication of organizations; in addition, all groups seeking recognition must name an adviser who will be active and knowledgeable about the group’s activities. The University, by permitting recognition, does not necessarily signify its approval or endorsement of the organization’s values.

1. Campus organizations, including those affiliated with an extramural association, shall be open to all students without respect to race, ethnicity, gender, creed, sexual orientation, or national origin.

2. Membership, policies, and actions of student organizations shall be determined by vote of only those persons who hold bona fide membership in the College or University community, following guidelines established by the appropriate committee of each school within the University.

3. Affiliation with an extramural organization shall not of itself disqualify a student organization from institutional recognition.

4. With the exception of certain activities where advisory duties are part of an individual’s employment contract with the University (such as in athletics and dramatics), each organization shall be free to choose its own adviser. It is required of all groups seeking recognition, and strongly encouraged of existing organizations, to identify an adviser. Institutional recognition and/or approval of certain activities (such as travel) may be withheld or withdrawn due to the inability of a student organization to secure an adviser. The adviser shall guide the organization in the exercise of responsibility but shall not have the authority to control the policy of the organization (unless it is to uphold University, local, state, or federal rules and regulations).
B. Inquiry and Expression: Freedom of inquiry and expression is integral to the definition of a University. As an academic community, the University is devoted to the objective, reasoned, and fair study of all issues and questions. There are times when the study of certain questions will be the subject of disagreement and controversy. While free to voice their objections and to protest, students shall be responsible for helping maintain an atmosphere in which objective and rational study can continue.

1. Students and student organizations shall be free to examine and discuss all questions of interest to them and to express opinions publicly and privately by demonstrations or in other ways, conducted in an orderly and non-obstructive manner. Students should be free, and no special permission should be required, to distribute pamphlets or collect names for petitions and solicit support.

2. Students shall be allowed to invite and to hear any person of their own choosing. Those routine procedures required by the University before a guest speaker is invited to appear on campus shall be designed to ensure that there is orderly scheduling of facilities and adequate preparation for the event, including the financial requirements, and that the occasion is conducted in a manner appropriate to an academic community. Non-recognized organizations should be aware of the procedure for ad hoc groups to follow in their programming.

3. Students have the responsibility to make clear to the academic and larger community that sponsorship of guest speakers does not necessarily imply approval or endorsement of the views expressed by either the sponsoring group or the institution. All publicity shall clearly indicate that the views expressed or to be expressed are those of the guest speaker and are not necessarily those of Drew University.

4. No publicity may be released to the public, press, radio, or television except through the Office of University Relations.

5. No student may enter into or sign a contract in the name of Drew University (or for any group within the University) without first seeking approval (and the signature) of the Director of Student Activities and/or his/her designee.

C. Student Participation in Institutional Government

1. As constituents of the academic community, students shall be free individually and collectively to express their views on issues of institutional policy and on matters of general interest to the student body. Students should participate in the formulation and application of institutional policy affecting academic and student affairs. The participation of the student body "in the formulation and application of institutional policy affecting academic and student affairs" may involve a variety of activities ranging from student discussion of proposed policy in committees and in organized agencies of student government or through the student press, to the more formal determination of policy by groups that include student members or, where and if delegated by appropriate authority, by groups that are composed only of students. Such participation is a responsibility as well as a right. Through such participation, students share in the responsibility of responding to the needs and wishes of all members of the academic community.

2. Student associations may be organized to act as the central deliberative body of the students of each of the schools of the University and to exercise such legislative powers as are delegated by the respective faculties and the trustees. It is understood that the faculty and administration will consult with the student body or with individual students when requested, and when it is deemed appropriate will review proposed student legislation. The faculty, administration, and student associations retain the right of final review in matters pertaining to their respective jurisdictions.

3. Student Publications: Student publications and the student press are a valuable aid in establishing and maintaining an atmosphere of free and responsible discussion and of intellectual exploration on the campus. They are a means of bringing student concerns to the attention of the University community, authorities, and of formulating student opinion on various issues on the campus and in the world at large.

V. STUDENTS AS CITIZENS

A. Exercise of Rights of Citizenship: Drew University students, as both citizens and members of the academic community, shall enjoy the same freedom of speech, peaceful assembly, right to privacy, and right of petition that other citizens enjoy and they are subject to the obligations that accrue to them by virtue of their membership. Faculty members and administrative officials shall ensure that institutional powers are not employed to inhibit such intellectual and personal development of students as is often promoted by their exercise of the rights of citizenship both on and off campus. Specifically, students who absent themselves from class as an exercise of conscience or in support of their rights of citizenship should receive no penalties other than those normally resulting from class absence.
Appendix • Sexual Harassment Policy

Sexual Harassment Policy adopted in 1994. The policy is for students, faculty, and staff, and the application of it in a variety of ways—educational forums, training events—largely reflects the atmosphere of trust and collegiality in the University community, to educate the community about sexual harassment of all kinds. This policy seeks to protect the well-being of the campus community. The Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs may, upon finding that such a threat exists, revoke a student’s right to be on campus or suspend a student from class for an interim period pending a prompt hearing pursuant to University disciplinary procedures. Any such interim revocation or suspension shall become immediately effective upon the required finding being made without prior notice to the affected student. On application of the affected student, the University official invoking the interim revocation or suspension shall, within five (5) business days, meet with the suspended student to consider only the reliability of the information regarding the student’s conduct and whether the conduct and surrounding circumstances reasonably indicate that the presence of the student on campus or in class continues to threaten the health, safety, or well-being of the campus community.

7. SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY

Dean Wendy Kolmar, Co-Chair, Sexual Harassment Committee, Brothers College 104, x3944

Dean Virginia Samuel, Co-Chair, Sexual Harassment Committee, Seminary Hall 102, x3418

The following italicized paragraphs are intended primarily for Theological students:

“Of all the issues facing society and the church today, one of the most serious and harmful is that of sexual harassment in its many forms. The damage done when one person harasses another is lasting and has far reaching effects, especially when the person doing the harassing is a church leader.

“Drew University has addressed issues of sexual harassment within the University community for the past several years in a variety of ways—educational forums, training events for students, faculty, and staff, and the application of the Sexual Harassment Policy adopted in 1994. The policy is printed in its entirety in this handbook for the convenience of students and as a way to demonstrate the seriousness with which the school takes these issues. Sexual harassment in its many forms is unacceptable within the school and will not be tolerated.

“Students are expected to familiarize themselves with the policy and are urged to go to a member of the Sexual Harassment Committee if they have been the victim of harassment. The list of committee members is available in the Office of the Associate Dean of the Theological School, Seminary Hall 102.”

Virginia Samuel, Associate Dean for Contextual Learning and Co-Chair of the University Sexual Harassment Committee

Sexual harassment, which has been considered tantamount to sexual discrimination under state and federal law, undermines the educational and employment environment of the University. The purpose of this policy is to guarantee all students equal educational access and all employees equal employment opportunity in an environment free from sexual harassment of all kinds. This policy seeks to protect the atmosphere of trust and collegiality in the University community, to educate the community about sexual harassment, and to provide students, faculty, and staff who believe that they have been sexually harassed with a reliable and effective process for seeking a remedy, while affording those accused of a violation a fair opportunity to be heard.

DEFINITION

Sexual harassment is physical or verbal conduct of a sexual nature which has the intent or effect of creating an intimidating or hostile educational or employment environment. Sexual harassment includes a range of behaviors specified below. Common to all of these is that non-compliance or objection by the person(s) being harassed carries with it an implied threat to an individual’s employment or academic status or access and/or compliance carries an implicit or explicit offer of advantage or preference.

1. Overt Sexual Advances

Demands for sexual favors; pressure for sexual activity; physical molestation; sexual assault; coerced sexual intercourse or attempted rape.

2. Other Verbal and Physical Conduct

Behaviors in these categories are most often sexual harassment when they are frequent and repeated or when they continue after someone has asked that they stop.

A. Harassment of an Individual

Pinching and other inappropriate touching; rubbing and brushing against the body; remarks about an individual’s body, sexuality, or sexual preference; sexist remarks or humor directed at an individual.

B. Harassment of a Group

Sexist humor or jokes; use of derogatory, denigrating, or belittling terms or stereotypic generalizations of a sexual nature; repeated differential treatment based on gender or sexual preference.
CONFIDENTIALITY
All proceedings, documents, activities and meetings related to a specific case before the Sexual Harassment Committee are confidential. Disclosure of any information related to a case by the complainant, person complained against, a committee member, or a witness in a case will be considered a violation of the Sexual Harassment Policy and will be subject to disciplinary action.

RETALIATION
This policy seeks to encourage students, staff, and faculty to express freely and responsibly their opinions and feelings about any problem or complaint of sexual harassment. Any act of reprisal, interference, restraint, penalty, discrimination, coercion, or harassment ( overtly or covertly) by a University employee or student against a person who uses the policy and procedures responsibly interferes with free expression and openness. This includes both retaliation against a complainant at any point during or after the process and retaliation against a person complained against at any point during or after the process. Accordingly, such acts violate this policy and require appropriate and prompt disciplinary action.

FRIVOLOUS OR MALICIOUS ALLEGATIONS
This policy shall not be used to bring frivolous or malicious allegations against students, faculty, or staff members. Disciplinary action under the appropriate University policy may be taken against any person bringing an allegation of sexual harassment in bad faith.

FREE ACADEMIC INQUIRY
Academic freedom is central to the University’s educational mission. Allegations that would undermine free academic inquiry or expression will not be considered under this policy.

PROCEDURES
1. Initial Interview
Someone who believes that she/he has been sexually harassed may request an interview with any member of the Sexual Harassment Committee. In that interview, the committee member will:
   • Listen to the account of what occurred
   • Give the person information about the committee’s policies and procedures
   • Outline the person’s options beyond that interview
   • If appropriate, set an appointment to talk again within five days.

2. Fact Finding and Consultation
   a. Committee member calls one of the co-chairs and informs her/him that an interview has occurred and repeats the person’s account.
   b. The co-chair attempts to verify basic facts reported. No one checks at this point with the person complained against or with his/her department chair or supervisor.
   c. The committee member and co-chair discuss the case and agree on the recommendation to be made to the person at the second meeting.

3. Second Meeting: Determination of How to Proceed
   a. The committee member first approached holds a second meeting with the person and presents one of the following three assessments of the case:
      • A formal complaint is appropriate
      • An informal procedure which aims at education is appropriate
      • Pursuing a complaint is not recommended for one of several reasons: basic facts could not be verified; something clearly occurred but it doesn’t fall under the sexual harassment definition; not enough evidence to pursue a charge. In some cases, the committee member might refer someone to another process or body within the University (e.g. Academic Standing Committee, Student Conduct Board).
   b. Before she/he decides whether to proceed, the committee member will inform the complaintant that her/his name will be revealed to the person complained against unless extraordinary circumstances of the complaint indicate that it would be dangerous to the complainant. The complainant decides what course she/he wishes to pursue. She/he can take several days to consider.
   c. If the complainant decides to pursue a complaint, the committee member gets a statement of the facts of the case from her/him. The statement may be written or taped by the person or responses to questions recorded by the committee member. The complainant chooses the means of recording the statement. By the end of this step, the committee will have a written statement signed by the complainant.

INFORMAL PROCEDURE
4. Contact Person Complained Against
The committee co-chair contacts the person complained against, tells her/him the nature of the complaint, and sets up a meeting to discuss the complaint.

5. Meeting
The co-chair meets with the person complained against and:
   • reports the complaint
   • outlines the policies and procedures of the committee and makes it clear that this is an informal procedure
   • asks for a response from the person complained against, giving her/him the option of responding immediately or within several days

6. Resolution of Informal Procedure
Depending on the response of the person complained against, one of the following processes is followed:
A. Resolution by Agreement
6A. The person complained against agrees with the complainant’s report of what occurred and says she/he was unaware of its impact and will modify the language or behavior complained about. At this point, even if the two accounts of events differ, the parties may agree that the complaint arose from a misunderstanding and that it need go no further.

7A. The committee co-chair records the resolution of the informal procedure and includes as part of this record the complainant’s statement and any statement the person complained against wishes to include. Letters are sent to both complainant and person complained against informing them of the resolution of the procedure.

B. Resolution with a Committee Review
6B. The account of the person complained against does not agree with that of the complainant; they offer two different versions or interpretations of the occurrence. The committee member refers the complaint to an informal committee review. At this point, the person complained against should be cautioned/requested not to contact the complainant.

7B. The committee co-chair convenes a review committee of three members not previously involved in the case. The complainant and the person complained against are expected to attend. The person complained against refuses to cooperate with the committee in any way, the co-chair may ask a dean or supervisor to intervene. The committee may look at evidence but witnesses should not be brought in. Minutes will be taken at the hearing.

8B. Both the complainant and the person complained against make brief statements presenting any information or raising any issues they wish the committee to consider. The review committee may ask questions of both parties. In its deliberation, the committee agrees on one of the following findings:

- that the report has foundation. The committee recommends that the person complained against modify language or behavior or seek some further education in this area.
- that the report is unfounded, or that there is insufficient evidence to confirm it, and that the conduct of the person complained against was acceptable professional conduct.

9B. After the hearing, the committee reports its finding to the person complained against and the complainant. The records are filed in the committee’s files only. No appeal of the findings of an informal procedure is possible.

FORMAL PROCEDURE

4. Contact the person complained against
   The committee co-chair contacts the person complained against. The chair tells her/him the nature of the complaint, sets up a meeting within five (5) working days, and follows up immediately with a letter which states the complaint (including names) and summarizes the complainant’s statement. The letter should also include information on the policies and procedures of the committee.

5. Meeting
   The co-chair meets with the person complained against and:
   - reports the complaint
   - outlines the policies and procedures of the committee
   - asks for a written response from the person complained against within several days
   - discusses a hearing date

6. Preparation for Hearing
   The co-chair sets a hearing date within seven (7) working days of his/her meeting with the person complained against (i.e., the meeting in step 5). The co-chair confirms the date with the complainant and, then, within one day, delivers a letter to both parties to confirm the hearing date. At least four days before the hearing, both parties should provide the co-chair with the names of any witnesses they wish to have contacted. Each party may bring a supporter who is a member of the University community. The function of this supporter is to provide support for the person, not advocacy. The name of the supporter should be provided to the committee along with the names of witnesses. The hearing committee may also designate witnesses it wishes to have present. Documentation is available in a file for committee members to read.

7. Committee Selection
   The hearing committee will be composed of five members and a non-voting chair. The co-chair of the Sexual Harassment Committee who has not been involved in the proceedings to this point serves as chair of the hearing committee. The co-chair selects, by rotation through the list of members of the full committee, the members of the hearing committee for the case and informs them of the background of the case.

   In all cases, both the complainant and the person complained against may request that one person be removed from the committee and replaced with another member of the same constituency. In the event that the complainant does not want her/his constituency represented on the hearing committee, the chair should replace those members with members of the uninvolved constituency. Members of the Sexual Harassment Committee with connections to the complainant (e.g. in their department) or the person complained against will be skipped in the selection process. The chair will make every effort to guarantee the impartiality of the committee.

A. Complaints against Faculty
When a faculty member is the person complained against, the hearing committee will consist of five voting faculty members. The hearing committee will also include two members of the constituency of the complainant (staff or students) who will have no vote but will be present, with voice, throughout the hearing and the committee deliberations. If both the complainant and the person complained against are faculty, the hearing committee will consist of five voting faculty members only.

B. Complaints against Staff Members
When a staff member is the person complained against, the hearing committee will consist of five voting staff members. The hearing committee will also include two members of the constituency of the complainant (faculty or students) who will have no vote but will be present, with voice, throughout the hearing and the committee deliberations. If both the complainant and the person complained against are staff, the hearing committee will consist of five voting staff members only.

C. Complaints against Students
When a student is the person complained against, the hearing committee will consist of three students, and two members selected from the two other constituencies. If both parties are students, four members of the hearing committee will be students and one is selected from another constituency.

8. Hearing
The purpose of the hearing is for the members of the committee, by listening to the parties and witnesses, to determine what happened and to make a recommendation on the basis of that finding. The hearing is an investigation by the committee, not a trial; therefore, the hearing committee asks the questions, etc. not the parties involved. The committee has the right to limit witnesses, to ask for written statements instead of appearances. The hearing will be taped.

Present: Hearing committee; complainant and supporter; person complained against and supporter; witnesses (witnesses are only present for their own statement). Lawyers may not be present at the hearing; supporters of either party should not also be witnesses.

HEARING PROCEDURES
A. Supporting documentation. Written statements are preferred; however, if person complained against makes an oral statement, the complainant may respond.

B. At the hearing, both the complainant and the person complained against make brief statements presenting any information or raising any issues they wish the committee to consider. The hearing committee may ask questions of both parties. Both parties may submit questions to the hearing committee.

C. The committee members ask the questions and interview witnesses; witnesses are not all in the room at the same time.

D. Each person can make a final statement.

E. Everyone except the hearing committee members leaves for the deliberations. The committee members have the option of asking witnesses to be available during deliberations or dismissing witnesses, complainant, and person complained against.

F. Formal rules of evidence will not apply to the committee deliberations. Evidence considered must, however, be relevant to the charge.

9. Recommendations
The committee can reach one of four conclusions
a. It can substantiate the complaint finding that events occurred substantially as the complaint describes them;

b. It can find that there is no basis for the complaint and that events did not occur as described in the complaint;

c. It can find that there is insufficient information to substantiate or to refute the complaint; or

d. It can find that the complaint is malicious or frivolous.

If the committee determines that sexual harassment has occurred, the members agree on the level of sanction they wish to recommend to the appropriate sanctioning officer of the University. The committee should strive for unanimity both in findings and recommendation of sanctions, but where unanimity cannot be achieved, a majority of 4-1 can decide. The vote should be reported with the recommendation. Unanimity is required for a recommendation of severe sanctions. The committee should also recommend appropriate redress for the complainant.

10. Notice of Findings
Complainant and person complained against should be notified of the committee’s findings orally at the end of the deliberations. Within two days they should each receive a letter reporting the committee’s findings. The committee also reports its findings and recommendation for sanctions by letter to the appropriate sanctioning officer of the University, a dean, or a vice president. Recommendations for sanctions against staff members should be made to the cabinet-level supervisor.
11. Imposition of Sanctions
The committee has the power to recommend but not to impose sanctions. Sanctions will be imposed by the appropriate sanctioning body. For faculty, the dean will act on recommendations for further education or reprimands; for recommendations of severe sanctions, the Professional Conduct Committee will be convened. For students, the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs will act on recommendations for further education or reprimand; for recommendations to suspend or dismiss, a Student Conduct Board will be convened. For staff, recommendations will be acted on by the cabinet-level supervisor. The sanctioning officer will inform the committee chair of what action was taken on the committee’s recommendation.

12. Appeal of Committee Findings
   a. An appeal by either the complainant or the person complained against will be allowed within seven (7) days of the notice on findings on two grounds: procedural errors or significant new information.
   b. Appeals are filed with the Academic Vice President who will determine the validity of the appeal. If the Academic Vice President finds that the appeal is justified, a new hearing committee will be convened, chaired by the co-chair who did not chair the original hearing.

COMPOSITION OF THE SEXUAL HARASSMENT COMMITTEE
The Sexual Harassment Committee will be composed of up to 42 members chosen by the constituencies they represent (e.g. Caspersen School divisions, GSA; Theological School divisions, TSA) in consultation with the committee members. The committee will have two co-chairs, 16 student members (four CLA plus four CLA alternates, two graduate students plus two alternates, and two theological students plus two alternates), 15 faculty members (eight CLA, two from each division, five theological school faculty and two Library faculty), and nine staff members (representing diversity of staff positions). Members will serve for two year terms; half the membership will change each year. Members can serve consecutive terms. Co-chairs serve for two years and are selected from among faculty and staff members who have already served a two-year term on the committee in the last five years; one co-chair is selected each year; co-chairs may also serve more than one term but no more than three consecutive terms. Co-chairs will be nominated by a nominating committee composed of the current co-chairs and one representative each of faculty, staff, and students; these nominating committee representatives will be chosen by the representatives of each constituency currently serving on the Sexual Harassment Committee. The nominee must be endorsed by a vote of a majority of the Sexual Harassment Committee. At least one co-chair should be a faculty member. Committee members can be dismissed by the constituency that elected them on the recommendation of a two-thirds vote of the entire committee. Grounds for dismissal are: failure to fulfill obligations as a committee member or to maintain confidentiality; being found to have sexually harassed a member of the community.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE COMMITTEE
The Sexual Harassment Committee is responsible for: administering the Sexual Harassment Policy; pursuing all complaints brought to the attention of any member of the committee; maintaining records of all complaints; developing and implementing on-going educational programs for the entire campus community; developing and distributing educational materials on sexual harassment; reviewing and updating the policy as needed.

RECORDKEEPING
The committee files are confidential and are kept by the co-chairs and they alone have access to them. Files should contain:
   • All letters and documents from formal procedures
   • Final letter and statements from informal procedures
   • Minutes of business meetings (not confidential)
   • Minutes of informal hearings (confidential)
   • Log maintained by co-chair of all contacts; committee members report each contact to chair even if no action results
   • Log by co-chair of calls
   • Yearly specific record of cases including:
     • Person involved
     • Sanctions
     • Who sits on case
At the end of the year, the committee should compile a report for the Cabinet, without names or specifics, of the number of cases heard and the resolutions recommended.

8. STUDENT CONDUCT POLICY
The disciplinary process shall, insofar as the setting of the University permits, strive to allow procedural fairness. The University does not have full judicial authority so far as the law is concerned and, therefore, does not intend to replicate judicial proceedings as followed in civil or criminal legal proceedings. Formal rules of process, procedure, and/or technical rules of evidence, such as are applied in criminal or civil court, are not used in student conduct proceedings. The University will, however, make every effort to protect students from arbitrary or capricious disciplinary action, to ensure fairness to all parties involved, and to achieve an informed and equitable result from the process.

Confidentiality: All meetings and all information gathered during the student conduct review process is confidential to the extent outlined by FERPA and University policy (see Privacy of Student Records, page 38) and shall not be released except with cause through the Office of the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs.
Any question of interpretation or application of the Student Conduct Policy shall be referred to the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, or the Dean's designee, for final determination.

Information regarding sanctions will not be released to faculty or staff except in the following circumstances:

• An educational need is identified
• Disclosure is one of the sanctions
• A student is thought to be a risk to him/herself or others

Attorneys and/or non-University advisers may not participate in, or attend, student conduct hearings. Student Conduct Board hearings and administrative meetings are separate from local, state, and federal court proceedings.

I. ACADEMIC DISCIPLINE is discipline resulting from violations of academic matters and is the responsibility of the faculty, following these procedures:

A. Matters of Academic Dishonesty (See “Standards of Academic Honesty,” pages 12 and 24).

B. Matters of Academic Standing: The Committee on Academic Standing reviews students’ records when they are not making adequate quantitative or qualitative progress in their degree program(s). Students should consult the catalogue for the requirements for their particular degree program.

1. Composition of the Committee

   Theological School: The committee is chaired by the Associate Academic Dean of the Theological School and is comprised of the Registrar, members of the faculty, a student representative(s), the director of special projects, and the senior administrative assistant to the Theological School.

   Caspersen School: The committee is composed of the Dean and the Associate Dean of the Caspersen School, the Registrar, members of the faculty, a student representative, the director of special projects, and the senior administrative assistant to the Caspersen School.

2. Sanctions

   a. Warning or probation
   b. Required leave of absence or dismissal of the student from the Caspersen/Theological School on academic grounds.

II. NON-ACADEMIC DISCIPLINE stems from violations of the Student Conduct Policy and is generally under the jurisdiction of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs.

A. University Jurisdiction: The University will exercise jurisdiction over any and all offenses against the University and its community whether the offense is committed on or off campus.

B. Offenses against the University and the Drew Community: The following may be regarded as offenses against the University and its community, whether the offense is attempted or completed. Members of the Drew community and their guests are bound by the following rules. Sanctions may result as set forth in Section G, including suspension or expulsion:

1. Behavior Disruptive to University Functions

   Obstruction or disruption of any regular or special function of the University; participation in, or encouragement of, any effort to disrupt a class; creating a public inconvenience, annoyance, or alarm; unreasonable noise.

This includes severe or pervasive verbal or physical conduct or the display or publication of words, pictures, or symbols intended to offend personally or to create an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working or educational environment for members of the other sex, other races, religions, ethnic groups, or persons of differing views or sexual orientation.

16. Interfering with Freedom of Expression

The express or implied consent of the victim will not be a defense. Apathy, indifference, and/or acquiescence in the presence of hazing are not neutral acts, and therefore are a violation of this rule.

21. Improper Solicitation
The unauthorized sale of goods on the University campus without University-issued permission or license; the unauthorized request for donations on or off the University campus.

22. Violation of Sanctions
Knowingly violating the terms of any disciplinary sanction (such as probation) previously imposed by the University.

24. False, Vicious, Malicious Allegations
Knowingly bringing false allegations against the University or another person for any reason.
C. Procedures for Student Conduct Policy Violations

1. Any member of the Drew community may allege that a student has violated University policy. Except in cases of sexual assault and sexual harassment, the University also may choose to file allegations on behalf of another person or on its own behalf. (See the Sexual Harassment Policy for further clarification.)

All allegations of violations must be submitted to the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs. Formal allegations must be made in writing, such as a letter or incident report. The incident report form is available on the Residence Life Web site depts.drew.edu/reslife/incident.htm.

2. Under normal circumstances, the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs shall be the primary discipline administrator. The Associate Dean will determine the appropriate follow-up based upon factors such as the nature and seriousness of the offense, whether or not it is a repeat violation, etc. In cases where the Associate Dean (or designee) is unable to schedule a meeting (due to a conflict of interest or other reason), the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs shall assume those duties. Under special circumstances, the University President may designate a discipline administrator.

3. If a student poses an immediate danger or threat to the health, safety, or well-being of the University community, the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs may impose a suspension or other separation from the University with no prior notice, effective until due process is concluded.

4. A student accused of a violation will be contacted by the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs (or designated discipline administrator) to discuss the allegations. Lesser offenses (those which do not warrant removal from University housing or suspension/expulsion from the University) will be resolved in an administrative meeting.

A. Administrative Meeting

Depending on the seriousness of the offense, an administrative meeting occurs with a staff member such as an RD, the Director of Residence Life, or the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs. The goal of an administrative meeting is to arrive at a finding of “responsible” or “not responsible”, and to assign sanctions if necessary. Major and/or repeat offenses (those which potentially could result in removal from University housing or suspension/expulsion from the University) may be resolved in an administrative meeting with the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs or in a formal Student Conduct Board hearing.

B. Student Conduct Board Hearing

The goal of a formal Student Conduct hearing is to determine responsibility and impose appropriate sanctions in a timely and fair manner.

5. A student charged with a serious University offense may withdraw from the University in writing, effective immediately upon receipt by the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, thereby forfeiting all tuition, fees, and any opportunity to enroll at a future date to the University. This option may be exercised only before an administrative meeting or Student Conduct Board hearing takes place.

6. If there is more than one allegation and the student pleads “responsible” to one allegation and “not responsible” to the other, the administrator shall determine if the case needs to be referred to the Student Conduct Board, which will follow the procedures set forth in sections E/F below.
7. Failure to Respond. Should a student fail to schedule and attend an administrative or Student Conduct Board meeting in the time designated by the associate dean (or designee), the student’s case will be decided in his/her absence.

D. Procedures for an Administrative Meeting

Students charged with a violation of the Student Conduct Policy or other University policy who are directed to meet with a discipline administrator will receive oral or written notice of the alleged violations prior to a meeting.

The discipline administrator will meet with the student(s) to:

1. Discuss the complaint and alleged conduct.
2. Allow the student to review the complaint and present his/her understanding of the events related to the incident(s).
3. Determine an appropriate finding:
   a. That it is more likely than not that the alleged conduct did not occur and the respondent is not responsible for violating the Student Conduct Policy, or
   b. It is more likely than not that the alleged conduct did occur and that the respondent is responsible for violating the Student Conduct Policy, thus necessitating the imposition of sanctions as appropriate.
4. After a decision has been rendered, the respondent will receive a letter summarizing the outcome and sanctions as discussed in the administrative meeting.
5. If a sanction has been imposed, it is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, or the designated discipline administrator, is notified of the completion of the sanction. Failure to complete a sanction may result in the assessment of additional sanctions.

E. Procedures for a Student Conduct Board Hearing

1. A Student Conduct Board hearing committee can be convened by the Associate Dean of Campus Life Student Affairs (or designee). In situations where the associate dean/designee is unable to convene a committee due to a conflict of interest, or any other reason, the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs shall assume those duties. In special circumstances, the University president may designate a convener.
2. A Student Conduct Board hearing committee is comprised of four students from the Student Conduct Board and three faculty members selected according to faculty regulations. At the request of either the complainant or the accused, up to two board members may be replaced due to conflict of interest. The convener will attempt to rotate the members who serve in hearings in such fashion as to give all members an equal opportunity to participate.

3. It is the convener’s duty to make all parties aware of how the proceedings will be conducted. The hearing committee has the following obligations to parties involved in the hearing:
   a. To provide
      i. A statement of the allegations.
      ii. Disclosure of the results of an investigation, if any.
      iii. A summary of the procedures to be followed.
      iv. A statement that the choice of hearing officer or convener may be challenged in writing to the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs within 48 hours of notification.
   b. To conduct the process in a timely fashion. (In cases where incidents occur near the end of a semester, the case may need to be adjudicated at the beginning of the next semester).
   c. To notify the accused student in writing of the reasons for the proposed disciplinary action and to allow sufficient time to prepare.
   d. To permit the student to be advised by someone of his/her choice from within the University community, such as an officer of the GSA/TSA.
   e. To allow the accused student to consult with an adviser during the hearing (the adviser will not take part in the proceedings).
   f. To permit the accused to speak on his/her own behalf and present evidence and witnesses. The accused may decline to answer questions.
   g. To advise the accused student of all available evidence and testimony with opportunity for rebuttal.
   h. To permit all accused parties to be present throughout the hearing with the opportunity to question witnesses.
   i. To present all relevant evidence as determined by the Associate Dean of Student Affairs (or designee).
   j. To render a decision based solely upon the preponderance of evidence and give written notification of that decision to the accused, the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, and relevant University officials.
   k. To provide a tape recording or transcript of the proceedings to be kept by the Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs, use of which will normally be limited to an appeal.
l. In certain cases deemed appropriate by the proper authorities, information on an offense may be disclosed to individuals or to the entire University community.

m. If an accused student, with notice, does not attend the proceeding, the information in support of the charges shall be presented and considered even though the accused student is not present.

n. The convener may accommodate concerns for personal safety, well-being, and/or fears of confrontation of the complainant, accused student, and/or other witness during the hearing by providing separate facilities, by using a visual screen, and/or permitting participation by telephone, videophone, video conferencing, videotape, audio tape, written statement, or other means whereas determined in the sole judgment of the convener to be appropriate.

F. Appeals

1. The right of both the complainant or the accused student to appeal a decision (whether by an administrator or the Student Conduct Board) is guaranteed. Except as required to explain the basis of new information, an appeal shall be limited to a review of the verbatim record of the hearing and supporting documents. Appeals may be granted for the following reasons only:

   a. Relevant new evidence or information is available because such information and/or facts were not known to the person appealing at the time of the original hearing.

   b. A procedural error was made that precluded fair and impartial hearing. Deviations from designated procedures will not be a basis for sustaining an appeal unless significant prejudice results.

2. Decisions following an administrative hearing or Student Conduct Board hearing must be appealed within two (2) business days of notification. Appeals will be heard by the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs (or designee).

G. Sanctions

The University maintains the right to impose sanctions upon students found responsible for violating the Student Conduct Policy or other University policy to protect the University community. The purpose of these sanctions is educational and rehabilitative. The reasons for the imposition of sanctions will be stated in the student’s file and will become a part of the student’s record.

Sanctions may also be issued in abeyance, meaning that any further violation will result in the implementation of the sanction in abeyance. Prior sanctions will be disclosed to the Student Conduct Board by the convener and may be considered.

1. Revocation of Admission and/or Degree
   Admission to or a degree awarded from the University may be revoked for fraud, misrepresentation, or other violation of University standards in obtaining the degree, or for other serious violations committed by a student prior to graduation.

2. Withholding of Degree: The University may withhold the awarding of a degree otherwise earned until the completion of the process set forth in this Student Conduct Policy, including the completion of all sanctions imposed, if any.

3. Expulsion: Unconditional separation from the University. The expelled student shall be barred from the University campus and all University-sponsored activities.

4. Expulsion from University housing
   Permanent separation of the student from residing in or visiting campus housing.

5. Suspension from the University: The student is separated from the University for a specified period of time with the privilege of applying for re-admission after the period of suspension. In making a determination on the re-admission application, the University will evaluate the documented (as appropriate) progress the student has made and/or any positive indication that the student is ready for re-admission.

6. Suspension from University Housing: The student is required to move out of campus housing for a specified period of time. Re-admission as a residential student must be evaluated. In making a determination on re-admission as a residential student, the University will evaluate the documented (as appropriate) progress the student has made and/or any positive indication that the student is ready to return to housing.

7. Restriction: The student is restricted from participating in certain University events and activities or from remaining a resident on campus. The imposition of this sanction should not ordinarily have the effect of harming other students or disrupting planned activities. Restriction is imposed for a specified period of time.

8. Disciplinary Probation: The student is placed under a status whereby any further violation of University regulations is considered in the context of the original violation and with prejudice. The period of probation lasts for a specified period of time.

9. Relocation: Assignment to another campus housing unit.

10. Warning: Written or verbal caution to the student that any repetition of the behavior will result in more severe disciplinary action, including removal from University housing.
11. Restitution: When property is involved, fines may be levied and/or replacement costs assessed. The imposition of this sanction does not preclude the use of other sanctions.

12. Disclosure: In certain cases deemed appropriate by the proper authorities, information on an offense may be disclosed to individuals or the entire University community.

13. Discretionary Sanctions: Educational assignments, essays, service to the community with a specified length of time, or other related discretionary assignments.

14. Written Reprimand: A written communication to the student concerning the infraction that is placed in the student’s file and may be considered should any future violation of regulations occur. The copy will be removed from the student’s file upon petition of the student after a specific period of time.

15. Nothing in this code restricts the right of the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs to suspend a student immediately if, upon investigation, the dean finds the continued presence of the student to be a threat to the health, safety, or well-being of the University community or any member of the University community, including the student. The procedures for such action are described in Article V, Section B of the University’s “Statement on Rights and Responsibilities of Students” found in this Appendix.

9. ALCOHOL POLICY

The Drew University Alcohol Policy was created as a result of the University’s concern for the education and development of the whole person and New Jersey State law on alcoholic beverages. While virtually everyone in the graduate and theological schools is of legal age, there may be family members or guests on campus who are underage. According to University Policy, students are responsible for the behavior of their children and guests. Therefore, please be aware of the current Alcohol Policy, as revised in May 2006.

MISSION

I. PURPOSE

The purpose of the Drew University Alcohol Policy is to promote student responsibility, respect for the community and self, and to establish a University community that is safe, healthy, and conducive to serious academic endeavors. To this end, the Alcohol Policy, which is based on federal, state and local laws, sets guidelines and defines community standards. Within these parameters, students must define their own values and make their own choices regarding alcohol use. However, the University expects all its members to comply with both the Drew University Policy and federal, state, and local laws as they apply to alcohol possession and use.

The University holds students accountable for the decisions they make, particularly when they have an adverse effect on the health and safety of the community, on the quality of life of other students, on the learning environment, or on the students themselves. To support student responsibility, the University offers a wide range of educational and counseling services that provide accurate alcohol-related information and evaluation. In addition to the formal services, students can gain support from faculty, staff, and other members of the community. When students fail to meet expectations set forth regarding alcohol use, the policy provides a range of sanctions depending on past behavior and the seriousness of the offense.

II. SANCTIONING

The goal of this policy, and of the sanctions imposed under it, is to educate students about, and to encourage, safe drinking practices; the policy seeks to establish clear community standards around alcohol. While the policy defines guidelines for the consequences of various behaviors, the context of those behaviors will be considered when policy violations are adjudicated. Therefore, the most severe consequences will result from situations in which high-risk drinking occurs. Students who are charged with repeat offenses may face a higher level of sanction.

Entering a university setting for many necessitates a new level of independence. Students are able to make their own decisions and must be able to deal with the consequences of those decisions. Keeping this in mind, the University encourages students to be responsible for their actions and will utilize parental notification as a partnership. This notification will be enacted when there is noncompliance, disregard of the policy and guidelines, or charge of a higher level of sanctioning.

Students’ misuse of alcohol may result in violations of other community standards beyond those established by the Alcohol Policy. When an alcohol violation occurs in conjunction with a violation of another University policy, such as the Drug Policy, the Human Rights Policy, or the Sexual Harassment Policy, a higher level of sanction may be imposed. Failure to comply with the directive of a University official, including Residence Life Staff, Public Safety officers, and Student Affairs staff, when combined with an alcohol violation, may also raise the level of sanction.
III. “GOOD SAMARITAN” EXCEPTION

To safeguard students so they receive the help they need without fear of penalty or retribution, the “Good Samaritan Clause” has been adopted. This clause may be invoked by the person in need of assistance and by those who provided that person with alcohol. If a student or organization helps an intoxicated student to get assistance from Residence Life staff, Public Safety officers, medical professionals, and/or local or state police, both the intoxicated student and the individual(s) assisting may not be subject to formal University disciplinary action for 1) being intoxicated or 2) having provided alcohol.

This policy refers to isolated incidents only and does not excuse or protect those who flagrantly or repeatedly violate the Alcohol Policy.

In the event of an alcohol related emergency or concern students should contact Public Safety from any campus phone at x4444, or any cell phone at 973-408-4444.

IV. EMERGENCY PROCEDURE

Drew University recognizes that an emergency situation involving drugs and alcohol may arise. In order to be pro-active in response to a situation, if a student is transported by emergency response team and alcohol and/or drugs is involved, the following procedure is implemented:

1. Public Safety will respond to the initial call.
2. Public Safety will contact the Madison EMT Squad.
3. Public Safety will inform the Health Service of the transport and file a report with the Dean and Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs.
4. The Office of the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs will contact the Coordinator of Substance Awareness and Educational Programs.
5. The Coordinator will reach out to the student within 24 hours to complete an assessment session.

V. USE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES IN UNIVERSITY HOUSING

A. Alcohol possession in University Housing is permitted only for students of legal age (21). Alcohol may be consumed only by legal-age students in students’ rooms, or in common areas during a University-sponsored event. Consumption in student rooms should not infringe on the rights of other students to study or negate any normal student activity. Students of legal age may not give or sell alcohol to minors to transport, possess, or consume. Minors may not transport, possess, consume, or purchase alcohol in any area of the residence halls. Full responsibility for compliance with New Jersey State laws belongs to all students. Student rooms will not be entered unless there is cause, see “Regulations for Search and Routine Room Inspection,” policy 13 in the Appendix.

B. Alcoholic beverages may not be sold at any time in residence halls.

C. Persons may not transport open containers of alcoholic beverages, nor may they consume alcoholic beverages, in hallways, foyers, stairwells, bathrooms, or other public areas, including outdoor University grounds, without an event liquor license.

D. An individual suite will be considered a regular student room, and the rules set forth above will apply.

E. Because of the many different types of housing accommodations provided by the University, Drew identifies the following areas as public:
   • General hallways leading to individual rooms, suites, or quads
   • Lounges that adjoin complexes or are not directly connected to a student room with access doors either opened or closed
   • General floor restrooms
   • The area outside a Townhouse
   • Outside on University grounds

VI. VIOLATIONS AND ENFORCEMENT OF ALCOHOL POLICIES

In addition to criminal sanctions and civil liability under State law, violations of this policy will subject a student to University non-academic disciplinary procedures. These procedures allow for a hearing. The University sets expectations in compliance with federal, state, and local laws in order to maintain a productive living/learning environment; use may not negatively impact community life.

Level 1 Alcohol Offense
• Underage drinking/possession of full or empty alcohol container
• Noise violation with alcohol consumption
• Open container in any public area of the University

Level 1 Adjudication — Potential Sanctions
• Attend alcohol education class
• Educational activity or service to the Drew community
• Container may be confiscated, and minors will have to pour out the remaining alcohol from the containers
• Official warning or written reprimand
• Social probation, up to 4 academic months

At times, alcohol consumption may result in increased problematic behavior which has an impact on self or others. The goal in Level 2 is to identify problematic issues and work in coordination with students to reduce this possibility.
Level 2 Alcohol Offense
- More than one Level 1 simultaneously
- Vandalism/Property damage caused while under the influence
- Failure to be respectful to University official
- Providing alcohol to those under the legal age (21)

Level 2 Adjudication — Potential Sanctions

- Educational activity or service to the Drew community
- Container may be confiscated, and minors will have to pour out the remaining alcohol from the container
- Fine (up to $50)
- Social probation, up to 6 academic months

Social Host Law: According to the Social Host Law of New Jersey, a host accepts a level of responsibility for guest behavior, the amount of alcohol consumed, and any injury that occurs due to drinking. In order to reduce the risk of incidence, common sources, high-proof alcohols, and progressive parties are specifically identified. Those stated either encourage excessive drinking, or make it difficult for the host to monitor the amounts of alcohol consumed.

Level 3 Alcohol Offense
- Common source (i.e., keg, beer ball, punch bowl)
- Repeat of any Level 1 or 2 offenses while on probation
- Serving as the host of progressive parties
- Hosting/providing grain alcohol or other spirit with more than 100 proof
- Selling alcohol to another (i.e. charging entrance to a party, paying for cards or items as part of the function, etc.)

Level 3 Adjudication — Potential Sanctions
- Alcohol and other drug assessment
- Mandatory TIPS training if found responsible for hosting*
- Container may be confiscated, and minors will have to pour out the remaining alcohol from the containers
- If found responsible, parental/guardian notification via copy of sanctioning letter.
- Housing relocation (at discretion)
- Housing suspension (in abeyance)
- Fine:
  - For common source, $250 per student
  - In general, up to $250
- Social probation, up to nine academic months

*Host addendum
The University will sanction those involved with hosting a function and providing alcohol differently from an individual attending the function. The goal is to increase education and awareness of the responsibilities that go along with hosting. A person found responsible for hosting will be placed on “host” probation for up to one academic semester. Students that are documented for and found responsible for hosting a party will have the amount of alcohol confiscated considered during adjudication.

At this level, a student may be experiencing issues aside from alcohol consumption. The goal is to assist the whole person to become a more positive member of the University community.

Level 4 Offense
Multiple infractions alone or coupled with other policy violations (hazing, disorderly conduct, sexual assault, human rights.)

Level 4 Adjudication — Potential Sanctions
- Alcohol and other drug assessment, location to be determined by Substance Awareness & Educational Programs Coordinator

VII. USE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES BY STUDENTS
A. UC Pub: Alcoholic beverages may be purchased, served, and consumed in the University Center Pub, which is licensed by the State of New Jersey and operates under policies compliant with New Jersey law.

B. Public areas: All other campus areas are considered public and alcoholic beverages may not be present except under special conditions.

C. Guest behavior: Drew students are held responsible for the behavior of their guests, as defined in Daniel’s Dictionary, “Residence Life Rules and Regulations”, Guests/Visitors.

D. One-day liquor license: Student groups selling alcoholic beverages at, charging admission to, or collecting money for an event where alcohol is served must obtain a one-day liquor license issued by the New Jersey Alcoholic Beverage Commission. It is the organization’s responsibility for every aspect of such an event. The following procedures must be followed to obtain a one-day alcohol permit:
1. Pick up form at town hall in Madison. The form indicates procedures to be followed.
2. Form must be signed by both the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs and the Director of Public Safety.
3. Form must be mailed at least three weeks in advance (or hand carried) to Trenton. If form is incomplete it will be rejected.
4. Form must be accompanied by a diagram of the physical space where the event will be held (including fencing, roping off of an alcohol-free area).
area, etc.) and a letter from the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs indicating he/she is aware of both the event and the sponsoring organization.

E. Bulk quantities: Alcohol in bulk quantities (such as kegs or beer balls) is permitted on campus only at events for which a liquor license has been obtained from the New Jersey Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

F. Non-carbonated, non-alcoholic beverages: Such beverages must be available and accessible at any event where alcoholic beverages are served.

G. Food: At all events where alcoholic beverages are served, food must also be served.

H. Delivery: Retail delivery of alcoholic beverages is prohibited.

I. Funding for alcoholic beverages: CLA student activities funds may not be used for the purchase of alcoholic beverages.

The Drew University Alcohol Policy was created as a result of the University’s concern for the education and development of the whole person. The policy provides parameters to keep students safe and is in accord with New Jersey laws regarding alcoholic beverages. According to New Jersey State law, it is illegal for anyone under the age of 21 to:

1. Purchase, possess, consume, manufacture, or distribute alcoholic beverages.
2. Enter places licensed to sell alcoholic beverages with the intent to purchase, have served or delivered to them, alcoholic beverages.
3. Misrepresent his/her age or the age of anyone else for the purpose of purchasing alcohol or gaining entrance to a place that sells or serves alcohol.

It is also illegal for anyone to purchase, manufacture, or distribute alcohol to a person who is under 21 years of age. In addition to criminal sanctions for violations of State law, there is potential civil liability for serving minors or serving a person who is already intoxicated.

ALCOHOL COUNSELOR: In view of the University’s commitment to educate and support the growth and development of the whole person, a full-time N.J. Licensed Clinical Alcohol and Drug Counselor is available to anyone in the campus community during the academic year. If you or someone you know has problems with alcohol and/or drugs, the counselor provides assessment, education, and individual and group counseling. Referral’s off-campus and to local support groups are also available. Call x3318 for assistance.

10. DRUG POLICY

I. VISION
Drew University has an obligation to the students and the entire University community to address and diminish the misuse, abuse, and negative behavior resulting from legal and illegal drug use. Therefore, the University will consistently enforce the Drug Policy as well as comply with local, federal, and state laws pertaining to drug possession/consumption, distribution, or sale/manufacture.

II. MISSION
Drew University is committed to maintaining a safe and healthy environment for students, staff, faculty, administration, and guests. This Drug Policy is intended to accomplish the following goals:
• To promote a healthy and safe campus community.
• To demonstrate the commitment of Drew to provide education and prevention services, referral services, support services, and treatment.
• To define expectations of student behavior in regard to illicit drug use.
• To identify appropriate disciplinary procedures for those students who engage in illegal drug-related activity.

In view of its commitment to education, prevention, and support in regard to illegal drug use or misuse, the University employs a full-time Coordinator of Substance Awareness and Educational Programs who is available throughout the academic year. The counselor provides assessment, education, and individual and group counseling. Referrals off campus and to local support groups are also available. You can reach the counselor at x3318.

In the event of emergency or concern, the Department of Public Safety is located in Pepin Services Center and provides 24-hour help and protection. This service is available seven days a week on a year-round basis. On campus dial x4444.

III. POLICY

The policy makes clear that students found using or possessing illegal drugs will be disciplined up to and including expulsion from Drew without refund of tuition and fees. Students who supply or sell drugs face immediate expulsion and criminal prosecution. This policy also encompasses the abuse, misuse, or sale of any prescribed medications; under this policy such actions will be treated as possession/consumption, distribution, or sale. If you are living with a person or persons who use or sell drugs, you will be held responsible; University sanctioning, state, or federal laws may apply.

Sanctions: The following are minimum sanctions as part of the Drew University policy addressing the possession/consumption, distribution, or sale/manufacture of any controlled dangerous substances and/or paraphernalia. (See the Student Conduct Policy, Appendix 8, II, G, for a full definition and description of student conduct sanctions.) These sanctions are in addition to any legal allegations incurred in accordance with state, federal, or local law. That is, a student found responsible for a drug violation can be sanctioned by the University and also charged on a state, federal, or local level.

If an incident is brought to the attention of the University by an outside party or victim, the student(s) will be held accountable by the University. It is not “double jeopardy” for both the civil authorities and the University to proceed against, and sanction, a person for the same specified conduct.

Possession/Consumption of Controlled Dangerous Substances
(Definition: Controlled substances include all illegal drugs and misused legal drugs, both over-the-counter and prescription. Possession means that such substances are on one’s person, or in one’s room, living environment, or automobile. Consumption refers to active use or being under the influence).

- A member of the Department of Public Safety will immediately contact the Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs and the Director of Public Safety.
- The Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs will contact the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs and the Director of Public Safety.

If it is deemed necessary by Public Safety and/or the Residence Life staff involved, a search may be requested and approved by the Dean (or Associate Dean) of Campus Life and Student Affairs as defined in the Appendix to Daniel’s Dictionary, “Regulations for Search and Routine Room Inspection”).

A report is filed by Public Safety. Residence Life staff may also file a report.

D. A meeting with documented party/parties will be held with the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs.
E. The Associate Dean may accept the accused student’s plea of responsible or not responsible. If a student pleads “not responsible,” he/she will have the option of adjudicating the incident in the administrative hearing or of requesting a Student Conduct Board hearing. See Student Conduct Board Policy (8), II, D and E.
F. A student plea of responsible or a Student Conduct Board finding of responsible will result in the imposition of the sanctions stipulated above.

V. CONTROLLED DANGEROUS SUBSTANCES

Being aware of state and federal laws regarding controlled substance use and possession is very important. The consequences of drug possession, use, and distribution vary depending on the type of drug. Federal law prohibits the possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs. Strict penalties are provided for drug convictions, including mandatory prison terms for many offenses. The following information, although not complete, provides an overview of federal penalties.

1. Denial of Federal Benefits (21USC 862)
A federal drug conviction may result in the loss of federal benefits including school loans, grants, scholarships, contracts, and licenses. Federal drug trafficking convictions may result in the denial of federal benefits for up to five years for a first conviction, 10 years for a second conviction, and a permanent denial of benefits for a third conviction. Federal drug convictions for possession may result in denial of federal benefits for up to one year for a first conviction and up to five years for subsequent convictions.

2. Federal Drug Trafficking Penalties (21USC 841)
Penalties for federal drug trafficking convictions vary according to the quantity of the substance involved in the transaction. The list below is a sample of the range and severity of federal penalties imposed for first convictions. Penalties for subsequent convictions are twice as severe. If death or serious bodily injury results from the use of a controlled dangerous substance that has been illegally distributed, the person convicted on federal drug charges of distributing the substances faces a mandatory life sentence and fines ranging up to $8 million. Persons convicted on federal charges of drug trafficking within 1,000 feet of a school (21USC 845a) face penalties of prison terms and fines that are twice as high as the regular penalties for the offense, with a mandatory prison sentence of at least one year.

3. State of New Jersey Laws
The New Jersey Comprehensive Drug Reform Act (N.J.S. 2C: 35-1 et seq) created new offenses, increased penalties for some existing offenses to “ensure the imposition of stern, consistent punishment for all drug offenders,” and transferred all drug offenses into the Code of Criminal Justice.

4. Drug-Free School Zone (NJ Statute 2C:35-1.1)
Drew University is within 1,000 feet of an elementary school and a nursery school and, therefore, is within a drug-free school zone as defined by New Jersey law. This means that any person who distributes, dispenses, or possesses with intent to distribute a controlled dangerous substance anywhere at Drew is subject to arrest, time in jail, and a fine up to $150,000 depending upon the amount of substance possessed. During part of this term of imprisonment there is no eligibility for parole.

11. REGULATIONS FOR SEARCH AND ROUTINE ROOM INSPECTION

ENTRY INTO UNIVERSITY HOUSING
Students living in University housing can expect a level of privacy in their rooms and suites, as well as in the community at large. However, the University reserves the right to enter rooms utilizing a master key for reasons related to safety, security, health, fire-code compliance, facility maintenance, legal, reasonable cause, or discipline.

ROUTINE INSPECTION
Routine inspection for safety, maintenance, or alteration may occur without notice to room occupants. In such cases, entry shall be preceded by a knock and verbal identification. Entry may be made even if a student is not present. Such entry does not include the authority to search personal belongings in a student’s desk, closet, bureau, etc. However, it does provide authority to perform necessary functions such as safety, maintenance, and room inspection. At the time of such entry, any prohibited articles that are in plain sight may be reported to Public Safety (x3379).

SEARCH AND SEIZURE
In an emergency of such a nature as to cause fear for the physical safety of a room occupant or in instances of plain-view violations, the rooms of students and their personal possessions shall not be searched unless appropriate authorization and permission have been obtained. Public Safety officers have the right to enter and search rooms and seize evidence when investigating a potential violation of University policy or procedure.

The conditions for room search are as follows:

Emergencies: The safety and security of students and their guests is a top priority of the University. As such, staff authorized by the University (such as the Department of Public Safety or the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs or a designated representative) may enter a student’s quarters without permission in response to:
- attempted or suspected suicide
- fire
- significant physical injury
- medical emergency
- situations in which there is a potential or actual threat to the security, health, or welfare of the resident(s) of the room, apartment, or surrounding community

Plain View Violation/Searches: Items that are prohibited, illegal, or stolen, or materials, substances, or possessions that are in plain view and observed by staff during the normal execution of their duties (within or beyond the confines of a housing unit) may be confiscated and/or used in a University disciplinary and/or legal proceeding. During such plain-view searches, staff may not open drawers, closets, closed doors, refrigerators, or any sealed area or property owned by a student(s). A student(s) may voluntarily open a closed area or personal belonging for a plain view inspection during the course of a search. Plain-view violations/searches can be conducted in the absence of the resident(s) in accordance with the procedures outlined above. In certain situations, Public Safety may be called upon to assist with confiscation procedures and may act on any violation in plain view or found upon investigation.

Voluntary Search: Students have the option to provide written consent to have their room or personal area(s) searched when there is reasonable cause to believe they are in possession of prohibited illegal or stolen items, materials, substances, or possessions, or are aware of or involved in a violation that is criminal in nature. Such searches shall be conducted by a Public Safety officer. Any evidence seized may be used in a University disciplinary and/or legal proceeding.

Involuntary Search: When there is reasonable cause to believe that a student is in possession of prohibited, illegal, or stolen items, materials, or substances, or has knowledge of or involvement with a violation that is criminal in nature, Public Safety may request authorization for a search of a defined area for a specific reason. Authorization standards are listed below.

AUTHORIZATION
Authorization may come from a court of competent jurisdiction in the form of a search warrant, if there is an alleged violation of the penal laws of this or any other state. The administration shall request such authorities to inform the President (or a designated representative) of the impending search so that a representative of the University, and when possible, a student government representative (such as an officer of the GSA/TSA) may be present at the search to guard against violation of a student’s rights.

If there is an alleged violation of University regulations (substantiated by information upon oath or affirmation), authorization may come from the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs (or a designated representative) upon a finding that there is probable cause to believe that such regulations have been violated. Such authorization shall be in the form of a written note that includes the following:
- The name of the student whose room(s) are to be searched and his/her campus address
- The specific violations of University regulations alleged
- The specific object of the search

The Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs (or designated representative), along with a representative of the student association, may be present at the search. Entry shall be preceded by verbal identification of the searchers and the purpose of the search. A copy of the written authorization for the search shall be furnished to the student. The student shall be compensated for any damage to personal property occurring as a result of any University search procedure.
12. POLICY REGARDING USE OF UNIVERSITY FACILITIES AND BUILDINGS

Drew University encourages its students to participate in the discussion of controversial topics and to listen to speakers representing all shades of opinion. It is not obliged, however, to open its facilities on an unrestricted basis to any and all groups of students who wish to utilize them for public meetings; nor is it appropriate for the University to be put into the position of playing official host for any and all visiting speakers invited to the campus by student groups. The necessity for regulation is obvious. The University cannot permit unregulated use of its campus, especially for the holding of meetings that have no part in its regular curricular or extracurricular activities. While University policy permits full freedom of speech on its campus, it cannot permit itself to be used physically as a public forum open at will to random attendance by persons off the campus. Such use would be inconsistent with the academic purposes and traditions of a University and with facilities available on campus.

1. The University Center (UC) is designated as the only facility open to groups of students formed into ad hoc organizations for discussion or other purposes and not duly registered and recognized by the officially designated committee of the school or college concerned.

2. Any ad hoc group of students wishing to use University Center facilities for an announced meeting must register its name and its list of officers with the UC Director prior to making arrangements for any function. Subject to availability, a room assignment will be made for such a meeting only when it has been scheduled at least 72 hours in advance, the participants noted, and the nature of the meeting clearly stated.

The same regulations regarding publicity of events apply to ad hoc groups as to formally recognized groups.

3. When applying for space for the holding of a meeting, lecture, or discussion involving speakers invited from off campus, such an ad hoc organization must present signed authorization from a faculty member indicating that he/she will be in attendance at the meeting and take responsibility for extending proper hospitality to the invited guests.

4. The above regulations are not intended to apply to student organizations already recognized by the schools or colleges of the University and carried on the official lists of those schools or colleges as recognized extra-curricular activities in good standing.

5. Duly recognized organizations may be granted permission to use the Hall of Sciences Auditorium or the Baldwin Gym/Simon Forum and Athletic Center only with the approval of the University after proper application for such use has been made. Such application must state the nature and purpose of the occasion, and whether or not the occasion is to be open to persons outside the University community and an invited audience.

6. In no case, either on behalf of an ad hoc group or a duly recognized organization, will any announcement of an occasion be released to the public, to the press, radio, or television except through the established University Public Relations Office and after University approval has been obtained.

13. ACADEMIC TECHNOLOGY POLICY

Use of the University computing systems, including the campus LAN (local area network) is governed by the following policy.

Computing resources are provided for the use of faculty, students, and staff for academic purposes. The privilege of use by a student is not transferable to another student, to an outside individual, or to an outside organization. Misuse of computer facilities is considered a serious offense at Drew and carries sanctions for anyone found in violation of the University’s policy.

As a member of the Drew community of campus LAN users, there are rules and policies by which you must abide to keep the network secure and available for all to use and to maintain an atmosphere where all are welcome. Your use of the LAN connects you to the entire Drew community and to the world via the Internet, and therefore reflects on both you and on the institution. Please take these responsibilities seriously.

1. The campus LAN is to be used primarily for purposes of fulfilling the University’s academic mission. It is intended to be used as a tool to enhance your education and is not available for unrestricted use for other purposes.

2. The University provides the campus LAN exclusively to you as a registered student. You are not permitted to share your account with anyone else.

3. Protect your account password at all times. You will be held responsible for all activities which occur with your account.

4. The campus LAN is a shared resource. Therefore, network use or applications which inhibit or interfere with the use of the network by others are not permitted. At times, LAN administrators may ask you to restrict your use of the LAN or not to use the LAN because of a temporary condition. You must comply with those requests. Applications which use an unusually high proportion of network bandwidth... for extended periods of time, including, but not limited to running servers or network games, are not permitted.

5. There are University standards for network software and hardware that can be used on the campus LAN. Computers, network cards, and network software issued by Drew become the standard. Use of hardware or network software other than the University standard without permission is not permitted. You will be asked to remove applications that interfere with the operation of the LAN.

6. Users of the campus LAN must comply with federal, state, and local laws and ordinances including U.S. copyright law.

7. Network administrators may access any file on the system in order to maintain network operation or security. Contents of personal files may also be accessed by programs designed to do heuristic searches for materials which could interfere with network operation or security. Files may be individually searched for investigative purposes when ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction, or when there is an alleged violation of University regulations and the search is authorized by the Dean of the College/Caspersen School/ Theological School or the Associate Dean of Campus Life and Student Affairs or their designated representatives. Search and notification procedures specified in the Appendix (section 11) will be followed.

8. Campus LAN services and wiring may not be modified, tampered with, or extended. This applies to all network wiring, network jacks, and hardware. If you cause damage by modifying or tampering with network wiring, jacks, or hardware, you will be held financially responsible for such damage and may be subject to disciplinary procedures.

9. Sending harassing or threatening messages, attempting to forge messages, crack passwords, or intercept data, and other malicious uses of the network are strictly forbidden by University computer-usage policies.

10. Support of the campus LAN is provided through University staff, student employees, and outside vendors. We will make every reasonable effort to keep the service operational 24 hours a day and to provide problem resolution within 48 hours.
