

Printing to a Network Printer

A network printer is one that has been set up by University Technology on the Drew campus network so that multiple computers are able to print without being plugged into the printer directly. If you are told that you can connect to a network printer, you should ask for the printer name and follow the relevant directions, linked below.

Network Printer Installation in Macintosh

Network Printer Installation in Windows