

Importing citations from Web of Science and Biological Abstracts to EndnoteWeb

Because the ISI Web of Science (Science Citation Index, Social Science Citation Index and Arts & Humanities Citation Index) and Biological Abstracts are all on the same platform with EndnoteWeb-- in fact Drew gets EndNoteWeb bundled in with these databases), the process for importing citations is a bit simpler.

1. Mark the citations you want to import.
2. In the list of citations, find the "Save to EndnoteWeb" button and click it.

3. On the next screen, you'll need to log in to your EndnoteWeb account with your Drew email address and the password (even if you are already logged into EndnoteWeb in another window or tab). Remember to click "Sign In"

The login screen is divided into two main sections. The left section, titled 'Customize Your Experience', contains a list of options: 'Save Searches', 'Receive E-mail Alerts', 'Access EndNote Web', 'Want to know more?', and 'Register'. Below this list are input fields for 'E-mail Address:' (containing 'leise@drew.edu') and 'Password: (Forgot it?)' (displayed as dots). A 'Sign In' button is to the right of the password field. There is also a checkbox labeled 'Remember me on this computer'. The right section, titled 'In order to create and Benefits of creating an', lists benefits: 'You can add records', 'You can organize', 'You can create', and 'You will be able to'.

4. A new screen will come up and show that the records are being sent to your EndNoteWeb. To return to your search, click "Back to Results."

The screen has a green header bar with the text 'Processing Records'. Below this is a grey box with the text 'Please wait while your request is processed. (Note: Depending on the number of records, this may take a few moments.)'. Underneath, it shows 'Product: All Databases', 'Selected action: Save to My EndNote Web Library', and 'Processing 3 records:'. A progress indicator shows '3...Done.' followed by two status messages: '- We are contacting your EndNote Web Library...' and '- The records are being sent to your EndNote Web Library. They may take a few moments to get there.' At the bottom is a yellow button labeled 'Back to Results'.